Saigon Under Second Attack

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON, (AP) — U.S. Marines beat off 200 to 300 North Vietnamese troops attacking a hill overlooking the northwest fortress at Khe Sanh today. The Viet Cong opened a fresh heavy attack in Saigon while fighting continued in Hue and other targets of the Communist offensive against South Vietnamese cities.

Police reported about 400 Viet Cong overran a police substation in Saigon after nightfall and launched a heavy assault on a main police precinct in the city. The attacks came after allied officials reported the Communists would open a second big attack on the capital. It was too early to know whether the 3½-hour ground assault on Hill 861A, accompanied by a heavy artillery attack on other positions at Khe Sanh, was the start of the expected North Vietnamese offensive along the northern frontier. But the U.S. Command disclosed it had moved 3,500 paratroopers from the 101st Airborne Division to the northern sector "to be prepared for any contingency." Since the first of the year, the U.S. Command has shifted about 15,000 Army troops to the northern sector to back up 40,000 Marines already there. Intelligence officers estimate at least 35,000 North Vietnamese troops are massed in the frontier region. The North Vietnamese attacked a Marine company holding Hill 861A with Bangalore torpedoes, explosive charges and bazooka-type rockets. The hill is a bald patch of scarred earth that dominates the northwestern approach to the Khe

Sanh Marine base three miles away. AP correspondent John T. Wheeler, with the Marines at Khe Sanh, reported that the Leathernecks crushed the attack with the help of artillery and jet air strikes that sent the Communist assault waves reeling back. Secretary of State Dean Rusk draws conclusion Hanoi not particularly interested in peaceful settlements, referring to recent offensives in South Vietnam during exploratory peace talks moves. Story on Page 24.

Six North Vietnamese bodies were found inside the company's perimeter and about 150 more were just outside. The Marines also reported capturing two prisoners and 64 weapons. The company defending the hill reported seven Marines killed and 24 wounded.

Wheeler said that during the battle Communist gunners fired more than 300 rounds of rockets and artillery on the main Khe Sanh base 16 miles below the demilitarized zone, the airstrip and other hill positions three to six miles from the strip. Only a handful of men were reported wounded in these attacks.

A U.S. spokesman in Saigon said the assault "looks like a probing attack to test our defenses."

The U.S. Command said the Communists have lost 16,976 men killed since launching the cities campaign last Tuesday. It said 1,477 allied soldiers have been killed, 471 of them Americans.

In Hue, South Vietnamese planes bombed the walls of the ancient citadel Sunday in an unsuccessful attempt to open a breach for assaulting infantrymen. A low mist kept the planes away this morning but U.S. 7th Fleet cruisers off shore joined the battle for the first time, firing at enemy positions with their eight-inch guns.

Associated Press correspondent John Lenge reported from Hue that South Vietnamese troops controlled the northern portion of the walled citadel but perhaps 1,200 Communists held the rest, including the inner courtyard, and apparently were determined to fight to the end if necessary.

Elsewhere in the former imperial capital 400 miles north-east of Saigon, U.S. Marines advanced another 500 yards in house-to-house fighting, Lenge reported. He said the Leathernecks held an area of about one square mile.

Allied forces claim they have killed nearly 1,200 enemy soldiers in the Hue fighting. U.S. marine casualties there are estimated at 35 killed and 230 wounded so far, and a dozen U.S. civilians still are not accounted for.

Note Pueblo Pact: Admission, Return

SEOUL (AP) — The United States agreed today to admit that the USS Pueblo trespassed in North Korean territorial waters, and the North Koreans agreed to return all 83 crewmen of the intelligence-gathering ship, the Seoul newspaper Chosun Ilbo said.

Quoting an unidentified South Korean government source, Chosun Ilbo said the agreement was reached at the third secret meeting of U.S. and North Korean representatives held at Panmunjom, where the Military Armistice Commission meets in the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea.

The report said the United States agreed to a Communist demand that it sign a note of apology admitting that the Pueblo violated North Korean waters. U.S. officials in Seoul said they could neither confirm nor deny the report.

Earlier South Korean sources had reported the meeting at Panmunjom today and said the North Koreans offered to release the body of one dead American and "several" injured if the United States would admit the Pueblo was trespassing.

A Seoul radio station said three helicopters were waiting at the conference building at Panmunjom in expectation of the release. A source at the 121st U.S. Army Evacuation Hospital 15 miles west of Seoul said one wing had been on the alert since Sunday to receive the Pueblo's casualties.

The sources said the negotiations at Panmunjom are being carried on by Rear Adm. John V. Smith for the United States and Maj. Gen. Pak Chung Kook for North Korea. They were reported meeting with only interpreters present, as they did first on Friday and again Sunday.

U.S. Embassy and military spokesmen in Seoul refused to comment on the reports of the meeting today.

Reports of the North Korean offer to return the casualties circulated after the meeting Sunday, but U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said he had no word of any such offer.

Some Seoul officials expressed suspicion that the United States was getting ready to issue an apology to North Korea over the incident in order to get the Pueblo crewmen back. A spokesman for President Chung Hee Pak's ruling Democratic Republic party said party leaders agreed the secret American-North Korean talks at Panmunjom would "only encourage further Communist provocations" in Korea.

North Korea's official press agency claimed a fourth officer of the Pueblo—its navigator—had admitted that the intelligence-gathering vessel had violated territorial waters of the Communist nation.

The agency quoted Lt. Edward Renz Murphy Jr., 31, of Berkeley, Calif., as saying the ship had entered North Korean waters more than five times before it was captured Jan. 23.

The statement attributed to Murphy, like the other three before it, included an apology, a promise not to engage in future "hostile acts" against North Korea and a plea for leniency.

Blasting Ruled Legal

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Blasting by Hudson Cement Company in the Ulster Street Extension, which has caused numerous complaints, has been ruled legal by city officials.

The cement company based its position on a 1955 ordinance which gave it an area 2,800 feet west and parallel with the Hudson River for blasting operations.

Protestors cited a 1963 ordinance that reduced the distance from the river to 600 feet. Corporation Council Aaron E. Klein has ruled the 1963 ordinance illegal.

Blasting operations are now being conducted 2,000 feet south of the Kingston-Town of Ulster line and 100 feet east of the end of Ulster Street Extension. The blasting is outside the 600-foot limit but within the 2,800-foot limit set in 1955.

Alderman Clifford Sinsabaugh (D-Fifth Ward) has been in strong opposition to the blasting. It was at his resolution that a committee consisting of Klein, members of the Common Council Laws and Rules Committee, City Engineer Thomas Wickman and officials from Hudson Cement investigated the complaints.

Sinsabaugh is still opposed to the blasting and has been joined by Alderman Frank J. Jablonski (R-Fourth Ward) who says he's been getting complaints from Fourth Ward residents.

Sinsabaugh is now questioning whether the 2,800 foot allowance pertains to any land the Hudson Cement Company acquires, or just the original tract zoned in 1955. The boundaries of that piece of land were the Town of Ulster line on the north, the Terry Brick Yard on the south, the Hudson River on the east and a line running 2,800 feet parallel to the river on the west.

To Abate Pollution Cement Firm Will Take Steps

By LYNN MULVANEY

Hudson Cement Company has agreed to modernize, test, study and revise the $1.5 million dust collecting installation it now operates as part of its Kingston complex.

Announcement was made this morning that a three-year program has been scheduled and established in which the company agrees to comply with newly established State air pollution laws. "It may be necessary to expend an additional $1 million," a management spokesman said.

The action stems from the "cooperative efforts" of the State Department of Health and Ulster County Health Department, Hudson official stated, explaining that a long series of conferences have been culminated in a mutual agreement regarding the reduction of air pollution emissions in the general area of northeast Kingston. Hearing of Hudson's proposed step to abate pollution, David Fletcher, chairman of the Ulster County Citizens Committee for Clean Air, praised the progress saying he feels "it is a firm step in the right direction and hopefully will establish a precedent for abatement in other local plants and industries."

Freeman Ran Series Hudson's new action follows several years of criticism of the plants contribution to air pollution in the area as described in a series of articles in the Kingston Freeman last fall. Since then the Citizens Committee has sought legal action and hearings were scheduled by the State of New York Department of Health.

Before the hearings were held however, Hudson Cement volunteered a program plan and time schedule for the control of emissions from the plant.

The state now reveals that the company has already engaged engineers and has commenced corrective action by ordering equipment to correct some of the deficiencies.

Not Overnight "Immediate complete corrective action" should not be expected, Alexander Rihm Jr., assistant commissioner of air resources points out.

"It will require a great deal of engineering planning and design as well as time to construct after the plans are approved."

He said the state is going to require a high degree of treatment of the emissions from the plant and when the work is completed, "hopefully there will remain no cause for complaint about air pollution emissions."

Another known source of local air pollution — Tranquility Farms, Ulster Park, is also controlled by the State Health Department.

Rihm tells of a Nov. 28, 1967 hearing before an impartial officer and says that determination has not been rendered as yet.

He explains further that once a case is turned over to the department counsel and a hearing is scheduled, the Division of Air Resources no longer has any control over the case. It is a matter entirely up to the hearing officer and the department's counsel.

May Name Center For Ex-Patrolman

Efforts are being made by the Rondout Community Action Committee to name the proposed $193,000 Rondout Recreation Center after Patrolman Albert Brown, killed in a car crash last year.

Brown, a former patrolman of the year, was community organizer in Rondout at the time of his death, Oct. 8, 1967. His car went out of control and crashed into a stone wall at the entrance of the Marist Brothers Novitiate, West Park.

The Al Brown Committee is chaired by former Supervisor Irving Bell. Members of the committee include Joseph Lawson, Ronald F. Woods, Vera Van Dyke, Annie Jackson and Ed Parker.

Bell pointed out that Brown, a former Kingston High School basketball player, devoted much of his time to youth activities in the Rondout for the organization of a summer recreation program which proved very successful last year.

Speaking of Brown, the Rev. James Priest, pastor of the Progressive Baptist Church, said today, "Mr. Brown's achievements as patrolman of the year and as a dedicated citizen should be truly recognized by our community. The name Al Brown on the recreation center will prove an inspiration for all our youth."

that the Ulster County Community Action Committee, of which the Rondout Center is a part, received a grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity for $60,297.

The money will be used for 30 children for 12 months under the Headstart Program. New funds include $48,779, the rest being in reprogram funds.

City to Declare 'War' on Vandals

By CHARLES BERMPHOL

Acting Mayor T. Robert Gallo told The Freeman this morning that the city will "declare war" on vandals and that he has instructed the police to "find and pick up" the vandals who smashed the windows of at least 17 cars in Kingston. Gallo's car also suffered damages.

A spokesman for the Ulster County Sheriff's Department claimed that six calls were received from outside the city regarding the breaking of automobile windows.

Started Saturday Night The vandalism first began to be logged in Kingston police headquarters at 7:59 p. m. Saturday and calls kept pouring in up to the early hours of Sunday morning.

Acting Mayor Gallo declared that the vandals responsible will be "picked up and prosecuted to the full extent of the law. It will be open season on vandalism as long as I am acting mayor."

According to Kingston police, windows on the driver's side along with rear windows and left rear windows were broken with a baseball bat or a thick pole.

There was also an indication that a pellet gun or small calibre rifle was used to puncture holes in vehicle windows.

When the calls began to come in, Gallo was alerted and he went out on police patrols from 11:30 p. m. Saturday until around 3:30 a. m. Sunday. He then returned to police headquarters to assist in the investigation.

Hit-Run Strategy No one neighborhood was victimized. The vandals evidently operated with a hit-and-run strategy and probably remained in their own cars as they smashed the windows, police theorize.

It would also appear that they left the city early Sunday morning and roamed residential areas looking for parked automobiles.

Five Teeners Reported Apparently nothing was stolen in the wave of smashings.

According to one report, a group of about five teen-agers was seen in a car outside the city, traveling along a route where some of the damage occurred.

A source believed all of the vandalism was the work of one group.

Outside the city, vandalism occurred in the Town of Ulster, with windows broken in two cars on Sherry Lane and three cars on Robin Lane in Ulster.

The cars belonged to Gail Booth and her father, Robert E. Booth of Sherry Lane, and George B. Fervin of Rutherford, N.J., and Edward Furman and Roy G. Alsdorf of Robin Lane.

The damaged city cars belonged to Mary Mills, Dorothy Markle, Joseph Barnum of Poughkeepsie, and Nellie Nichola, all on Downs Street; acting mayor T. Robert Gallo and Jim Gallagher of Andrew Street; Herbert Dickerson, David Segal, and Charles Martine of Clinton Avenue; Kenneth Gundlach of Livingston Street; Heins Weisser of Millers Lane; Bernadine O'Rourke of South Manor Avenue, and to two cars owned by George Hutton of Johnston Avenue.

Last Wave in September

The last wave of vandalism occurred in September and involved at least 10 automobiles in the Kingston area.

According to reports, the breaks of the cars were released and the automobiles were made to roll downhill.

Picked up in connection with the case were two area youths who are now awaiting court action.

The district attorney's office will be handling the cases.

Picked up in connection with the case were two area youths who are now awaiting court action.

The district attorney's office will be handling the cases.

County Cancer Chapter Establishes $50G Goal

A goal of $50,000 has been set for the Ulster County chapter of the American Cancer Society, and county chairman Richard Rochford has said, "We have gone beyond merely contributing to hope. We will be giving to a breakthrough and the most significant research yet proposed."

Rochford, owner and manager of King Chrysler, met with crusade officers at a dinner in the Kirkland Hotel recently.

Besides Rochford, the other officers are Mrs. Edwin B. Shumate, towns chairman; John Sanglyn Jr., industrial chairman; Harry Kaprelian, special gifts chairman; William Pearson, general manager of the N. Y. Telephone business office in Kingston, vice-chairman in charge of special gifts; George Svirsky, special events chairman, and Charles Bernpohl, Kingston Freeman reporter, chairman of public information.

The $50,000 goal represents a fund increase of $17,500 over last year's total.

The theme of the crusade will be "Breakthrough '68."

Commenting on the increased goal and the theme, Chairman Rochford said, "We feel that research into the symptoms and causes of cancer has produced great strides in recent years, and especially last year."

"Doctors, specialists, and researchers have brought us to the doorstep of dramatic discoveries, as they have battled to establish preventative cures in the past."

"What is needed now is what was needed before — money. But now, more so than ever before, we find ourselves just short of success in man's age-old fight against the dreaded disease."

Buffalo Marine Killed in Viet

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Marine Pfc. William E. Donahue, 19, of Buffalo, who arrived in Vietnam this month, died in action there Saturday, his father says.

Mr. William J. Donahue Jr. said Wednesday military authorities told him that his son suffered a gunshot wound in action against hostile forces near Quang Tri.

Donahue, who had attended South Park High School, entered the service last July here as part of the "Buffalo Bills platoon." The Bills platoon is composed of pairs of recruits who join the service under the buddy plan. Local Marine recruiters and the American Football League, Buffalo Bills team conceived the idea in 1963.

His father's address is 246 Alabama St.

Red Cross Has Big Increase In Services

The Ulster County Red Cross Chapter, in its year-end report, noted a great increase in service, especially in programs for military families.

County chapter chairman is Zale Liese. Mrs. Walter K. Hubbard is the executive director. New members to the board this year include the Rev. John Burns of Marlboro, Mrs. William Conner of Gardiner, Edward Demarest of Rosendale, Raymond Dunn of Phoenixia, Kenneth Pangburn of Kingston, Robert Braun of Shokan, the Rev. Robert Grupe of High Falls, the Rev. Paul Hoyt of Ashokan and Lewis Klein of Port Ewen. John O'Leary is vice chairman. Mrs. John Sloan is secretary and Francis Kolts is the treasurer.

Helped 762 Families
During 1967 the volunteers and staff in the service to military families program assisted 762 families. Services ranged from the giving of information to the relaying of emergency messages and the counseling of family problems.

Volunteers serving last year include Mrs. Albert Kurd, Mrs. Robert Shellenberger, Mrs. Bernard Feeney, Jr., Mrs. Robert Kurland, Mrs. Louis Smith, Mrs. William Davis and Mrs. Donald Snell all of Kingston, Mrs. Ralph Smith of Port Ewen and Mrs. Alan McCorkle of Stone Ridge.

Needs Cooperation
Liese pointed out that the successful operation of a Red Cross chapter depends upon the cooperation from volunteers. It was pointed out for every paid staff member there are over 300 Red Cross volunteers. Without them the chapter could not operate. Our board members, water safety instructors, first aid instructors, and Service to Military Families workers are volunteers. More are always welcome. Then, too, there is clerical work to be done, records to be kept, and sewing to be completed. In short, there is something for almost anyone.

New Approach Begins At Stony Brook

STONY BROOK, N.Y. (AP) — Marijuana-plagued State University at Stony Brook begins a new approach today to drug abuse on the campus.

In the wake of spectacular campus raids mounted in the predawn hours Jan. 17 by nearly 200 Suffolk County police, the university launched mandatory group-therapy sessions for students arrested on drug charges.

In the old GI vernacular, the theme will be "shape up or ship out."

The raid and follow-up swept in 46 persons, 29 of them students and 17 campus hangers-on. It provoked an uproar at home and in the Albany Capitol, touched off two state legislative committee hearings, and tirades of argument. There's more to come.

Attend or Get Out
The 28 students arrested last month and several arrested last year must attend the new classes or get out of school, authorities said.

"They will not have any choice whether they will come or not," said Dean Hepper, who heads the new program. "They won't stay on campus if they don't attend."

Three-times-a-week "reality group therapy" sessions, each 90 minutes long, are planned for small groups of students, Hepper said in an interview.

"Reality group therapy," he explained, "is the technique in which individuals are made to look at themselves and their relationship to others and the real world around them. We use peer group pressure — social pressure generated by one's peers. Although no one has said so officially, attendance and attitude will be noted in assessing university penalties for students convicted of drug crimes."

Fire Fighters Union to Mark 50th Founding

Members of Local 461 of the International Association of Fire Fighters, AFL-CIO, which represents members of the Kingston fire department, are mapping plans to observe their union's 50th anniversary in February.

President Robert Gollnick of the local said that the parent organization was chartered Feb. 28, 1918, in Washington by the former AFL. Since the 1955 merger of the two labor federations the IAFF has been an affiliate of the AFL-CIO. Local 461 was chartered in Feb. 28, 1936.

"The union has been responsible for the significant gains that professional fire fighters have made in the last half century," Gollnick said.

It has brought about a considerable reduction in the number of hours that fire fighters must be on duty and it has elevated the level of salaries. It also has secured needed legislation to set up pension systems and retirement plans for men injured in the performance of their duties.

President Gollnick said that the IAFF, whose headquarters are in Washington, D.C., now has a membership of 130,000 in the United States and Canada. It elects its officers at biennial conventions and all of these are active or retired fire fighters.

Nationally, he said, the union is urging legislation to make it a federal offense to interfere with fire fighters performing their work during riots or civil disturbances.

The union is also cooperating with the fire chiefs' organization in urging Congress to establish a National Advisory Commission on Fire Prevention and Control to combat the rising toll of lives and property caused by fire.

Fish Critical Of Democrats

Addressing the annual Lincoln Day Dinner at the Helene Center, Poughkeepsie, Saturday night, Hamilton Fish Jr. claimed "The nation is threatened and divided much as in Lincoln's time. Only the Republican party guided by Lincoln's faith in the people can supply the moral purpose the times call for."

Attending the dinner from the Kingston area were Alderman John Naccarato (R-Third Ward), Ulster County coordinator for Fish during the 1966 congressional campaign; C. John Bechtold, mayoral candidate in 1967; Clark Myers, former Second Ward alderman and supervisor; H. Clark Bell, former constitutional convention delegate; and Edward T. Feeney Jr., Kingston attorney. Both announced Republican candidates for Congress were at the dinner. Also attending was G. Gordon Liddy, Dutchess County assistant district attorney, who announced his candidacy against Fish last month.

Lost to Resnick
Fish ran against Joseph Y. Resnick in 1966, losing by less than 4,000 votes. He carried Ulster, Schoharie, Greene and Columbia Counties in the 28th District but was beaten heavily in Dutchess County, costing him the race.

Resnick has chosen to run for the United States Senate against incumbent Republican Senator Jacob K. Javits of New York City. Congressman Resnick is currently campaigning for the Democratic nomination for the senate race.

Challenging the President's "dismissal" of national restlessness, Fish told the Dutchess County Young Republican Club, "the dimension of today's problems testify to the failure of the present administration. "The war in Vietnam has brought forth questioning unparalleled in our history. Our people wonder at the reports of corruption in the South Vietnamese government, they question the commitment of the Vietnamese to defend their land but most damaging of all they question what they are told by their own government."

"The widening communication gap between our people is critical. White and Negro will give you diametrically opposed explanations of civil disorder." "Crime is escalating at nine times the rate of growth of our population." Fear of inflation and rising taxes is present for every American—every salaried person and wage earner; salaries and wages go up without any change in the standard of living. We witness inflation sabotaging social programs, labor gains, and the respect and independence that fixed income brings to our elderly.

"Our youth search for meaning in their lives. A score of draft card burners today does not imply that our youngsters are less patriotic than their fathers. The publicity given to the drop-outs tells us little about the seriousness of the commitment of our citizenry; young and old, wish to make."

"The courage to wage peace, the call for sense of responsibility on the part of all Americans, to engage themselves in the great domestic issues, is the challenge of leadership. An administration lacking the confidence of the people cannot lead. "We need that trusted leadership that can spell out common goals and a national purpose. This is the call for action which today is not heard." Fish concluded.

Accident Kills Two From Columbia County

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.
Traffic accidents claimed at least 11 lives—including two persons who were killed in a two-car collision on a Columbia County highway—and injured many others in New York State over the weekend.

Area police authorities reported a rash of motor vehicle collisions, some caused by icy pavements. Troopers issued summonses for violations after investigations.

Fires took the lives of three persons, and three others died in other types of accidents. No fatalities were recorded in Ulster County.

Among those killed on the highways were Frederick Saviano, 27, of Canaan, and Jerold D. Waldman, 21, of The Bronx, who were involved in a grinding head-on collision at 2:45 p. m. Sunday on Route 20 in the Town of New Lebanon.

State Police Sergeant J. J. Fremante of Claverack said the cars were driven by Saviano and John G. Clevenger, 18, of 30 Lebanon Avenue, Pittsfield, Mass. The vehicles were traveling in opposite directions when, authorities said, Clevenger's car crossed into the westbound lane and the collision occurred.

Clevenger was cited by BCI Investigator T. J. O'Donnell and Trooper S. H. O'Brien for reckless driving.

Clevenger suffered multiple lacerations of the face and body. A passenger in his car, Henry Niesberger, 17, of Green Island, received lacerations and contusions of the face and back. The injured were taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Pittsfield, Mass.

Carl L. Larish, 22, of Phoenicia, was severely injured Saturday night when the car in which he was a passenger went out of control and overturned on Route 28 in the Town of Shandaken. He was taken to Kingston Hospital suffering a possible fractured skull, lacerated eye and other injuries. His condition was listed as fair.

According to an investigation by Trooper Carl Van Wageningen of Kingston, Larish was a passenger in a car operated by William Pozsonyi, 22, Bound Brook, N. J., who sustained multiple severe lacerations of the right hand. Both men were taken to the hospital here by the Town of Shandaken ambulance.

Troopers said the car was traveling east on the highway when it failed to negotiate a curve, veered across the road, hit a culvert and bounced back into the westbound lane where it landed upside down.

Mrs. Rosella Beadle, 39, of Marlboro, was injured Saturday afternoon when hit by a car as she was walking in a parking lot at Lloyd's Department Store on Union Avenue, Town of Newburgh. The car was driven by James F. Dorsey, 26, of Grand Street, Newburgh. Mrs. Beadle was treated at St. Luke's Hospital for an injury of the left hip and later released.

Three persons were injured, two critically, after a two-car collision on the Newburgh-Beacon bridge. State Police listed the drivers of the vehicles as Robert Collins, 24, of Fishkill, and Gordon Buchalew, 51, of 95 Weeks Avenue, Cornwall.

State Police cited Collins for driving while intoxicated and Buchalew was accused of failure to keep to the right. Both summonses are returnable before Newburgh Town Justice Angelo Darrigo. Buchalew suffered fractures of the left arm and three ribs and multiple lacerations. Mrs. Genevieve Mayen, 41, of Beacon, sustained numerous lacerations and a fractured rib.

William Mertes, 56, of Chapel Hill Road, Highland, narrowly escaped serious injuries Saturday night when his car crashed through barricades near the former Highland traffic circle on 9W. Troopers said the impact forced two 2x6 planks to smash through the windshield of the vehicle.

One plank went through the grille, rammed the fire wall, hood and windshield and emerged inches above the driver's head. The second plank crashed through the windshield and the rear window close to the operator's body. Mertes escaped with several bumps on his forehead, authorities reported.

Lena Ferriolo, of Brooklyn, complained of back injuries Saturday afternoon after the car in which she was riding was in collision with another vehicle on the crest of the road on Mill Hill Road, according to Ellenville State Police. She was riding in a car driven by Pietro Ferriolo, 43, of Brooklyn. The other vehicle was operated by Michael Denkensohn, 17, of Accord, who escaped injury, according to Trooper Michael Bonney.

Freeman Stay Jr., 45, of PO Box 195, Saugerties, was injured Saturday night when his car failed to negotiate a left curve and went off the west side of Route 32 near Saxton and slammed into trees and a stone wall. Trooper Robert Mackey cited Stay for driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent.

Stay was taken to Benedictine Hospital and treated for facial lacerations and possible rib fractures.

Deny Ulster Meeting

A request of the Ulster Businessmen's Association for a west should be reopened which area on the east bank of the joint meeting of the Ulster Town Board, Planning Board and the would eliminate many cars Esopus Creek, they are concerned from entering 9W. The project earned that it could result in businessmen, concerning the was turned over to the planning a problem for residents residing along the creek in the Town board for review and to establishing the needed steps for opening the road.

The town board also discussed the lower Esopus Creek, to study and to apply to the Feeling that the Corps of Engineers are going to build a dike the creek in Ulster.

The matter was turned over to the Ulster Planning Board.

Following a meeting of the town board Thursday night Musialkiewicz explained that the original plan for the arterial has been corrected to about 90 per cent right and that both the town and planning boards feel that crossing traffic on 9W is not a safe practice. He said they will make their feelings known further at a public hearing concerning continued use of the existing traffic circle.

At last Thursday's meeting, the businessmen sought to have the town board engage an engineer to draw other plans. Musialkiewicz points out that the board has engaged the services of Warren Travers who conducted the origin and destination study and proposed alternate routes.

The change now proposed by the State Department of Transportation was one of those plans already submitted.

"The change of the new proposal will be placed to the east between Rt. 32 and 9W with a new clover leaf and 9W north which would have been dead-ended will be continued to be open," he explained.

Musialkiewicz said that he and the highway superintendent, Edgar Elliot, had studied the Neighborhood Road and proposed that the portion of the Neigh-

The state's college and university newspapers will be represented by Hartwick College's "Hilltops" and New York University's "Washington Square Journal" in an American Newspaper Guild contest this June.

Both won first prizes Saturday in their respective divisions of the annual college-newspaper competition sponsored by the Empire State District Council of the Guild.

NYU's award was in Class I, for schools with more than 4,500 students. The Oneonta school won its prize in Class II, for those with less than 4,500 students.

The Guild's international contest will be held in Cleveland, Ohio.

Runner-up in Class I was Long Island University's "Seawanhake," which won first prize last year. Hofstra's "Chronicle" placed third.

Class II runner-up was Siena College's "The Indian." Third place went to Hamilton College's "Spectator."

Three special awards were given this year for the first time.

Rochester Institute of Technology's "Reporter" was cited for its use of four-color photographs. Plattsburgh State's "Beekman Street" won its award for developing a news-magazine format. Marymount College's "Cormont" was designated the best newspaper at an all-women's college.

First American city to replace its horse-drawn trolleys with electric street cars was Baltimore, Md., in 1885.

28 Million Working Women

Working women are no longer a novelty, not when one-third of the working force is women, a great count of 28 million. But that three out of five working women now are married and living with their husbands may be news. This is vouched for by the Department of Labor.

The department described the typical woman worker as a married woman, 41 years old, a big contrast to the 1920 situation when the average woman worker was single and 28 years old. That is what a half century has wrought in our distaff society.

The reason is due to the fact that at least half of today's women tend to marry by the time they are 21. They finish their childbearing at the youthful age of 30, which leaves them many years of activity ahead. Their husbands are relatively young and perhaps not at their peak earning years. So the women go to work to help out at home, and perhaps earn much of the cost of their children's college education, so costly nowadays.

The fact is that nine out of ten girls today are going to work in paid employment some time in their lives and 40 per cent of the married women between the ages of 35 and 64 are wage earners now. They are wise to look for the big opportunities open to them and prepare for them. The Women's Bureau, Department of Labor, will furnish a list of well paid occupations that are open to women where the need for them is great.

A fleet of 200 helicopters will soon be in service at 60 military bases around the country to go to the rescue of those injured in traffic accidents and airlift them to nearest hospital care. It is a development based on successful airlift operations in the Vietnam war.

Experiment in Unity

For the first time, the World Council of Churches, which includes Protestant and Orthodox sects, and the Roman Catholic Church have jointly appointed a staff member working for both sides and paid out of a common budget in the person of the Rev. George H. Dunne, an American Jesuit. He is to produce a statement of common convictions on economic development aid, trade and related issues for immediate joint study as the basis of actions that the Roman, Protestant and Orthodox churches should be taking.

Since Vatican Council II, with its emphasis on ecumenical endeavors, there have been several joint conferences and enterprises between the World Council and the Vatican, but this first joint appointment is regarded as a very important pioneering step in cooperation. Its aim is to prepare for the most advanced and ambitious Christian unity experiment yet undertaken, the Conference on World Cooperation on Economic Development, Society and Peace.

This conference will take place in Beirut, Lebanon, from April 21 to 27 under ecumenical sponsorship. Already, members of the exploratory committee have held several private sessions, in Rome and in Geneva, to discuss cooperation. They found several practical fields where doctrinal and disciplinary divergencies are no obstacle. The Beirut conference should develop these fields where Christian unity may do miracles.

The success of an experimental one-stop information center in Atlanta and Kansas City has led to the promise of similar centers in Chicago, Boston, Denver, San Francisco and Fort Worth. They direct people to the proper federal agencies for solution of their problems.

Your 195 Energy Slaves

Each man, woman and child in the country has at his command the equivalent of 195 "slaves" in terms of energy we are producing, from power plants to automobile engines. These energy slaves all have waste products, many of them toxic to nearly every form of life.

Dr. James P. Lodge Jr., a top scientist at the National Center for Atmospheric Research at Boulder, Colo., recited these facts before the convention of the American Meteorological Society in San Francisco. The figures mean, he said, that our 200 million Americans give off environmental pollution equal to a population of 39 billion.

The huge scale production of energy represents a radical disruption of the earth's chemical balance, Dr. Lodge explained. Chemicals are being transformed wholesale by man into extraordinary substances that hang in a sort of chemical limbo instead of returning automatically to their original state.

If we are to survive on earth, Dr. Lodge said we must consider such things as whether we can afford to burn a precious organic material—such as petroleum, that eventually will be used up—to move a 120-pound woman and a bag of groceries to and from the market. We must free many of our energy slaves before they enslave us in an atmosphere unfit for human abode.

Weekly Presidential Prayer Breakfasts

WASHINGTON—It didn't make big headlines. It wasn't on television. It was just a meeting on Thursday morning of 1,000 persons—mostly from the government—all praying together for God's help and guidance. Among them were the President and members of his cabinet, the Vice President, the governors of seven states, a justice of the Supreme Court, the Speaker of the House, numerous senators and representatives, and high-ranking military officers.

The function, known as the "Presidential Prayer Breakfast," is held under the auspices of the breakfast groups of the Senate and House, which meet weekly. Persons of all faiths have attended these private prayer meetings as well as the annual event.

Senator Frank Carlson of Kansas presided. There were brief remarks by Senator John Stennis of Mississippi, leader of the Senate breakfast group, and by Representative Ben Roaf of South Dakota, leader of the House breakfast group. Vice President Humphrey read passages from the Bible. General Harold K. Johnson, Chief of Staff of the United States Army, delivered the principal address of the occasion. He said:

"There is a solution to the problems of this world—turn to God. There is a solution to the conflicts between nations—turn to God. There is a solution to the problems of our cities and of our streets—turn to God. Not in a superficial way, but in a human and compassionate way—as man to man and friend to friend. There is a solution to the problem of our young—turn to God. There is a solution to the problems of our old—turn to God.

President Johnson spoke briefly. He declared in part: "America needs to grow on the strength of our many faiths. The nights are very long, the winds are chill, our spirits grow restive. For such seasons man was given the saving strength of faith which we summon when we pray. 'It is not my right to tell other citizens of this free land how or when or what they should worship. But I can tell you that on these long nights your President prays.'

There are some observers who may wonder whether participation by high government officials in a prayer meeting impinges in any way on the doctrine of separation of church and state. The Supreme Court of the United States, however, has not banned prayers outside the classroom or other school property. It has merely declared that prayer directed by any governmental agency is unconstitutional. So it is significant that voluntary prayers and meetings of private breakfast groups have increased in recent years in and around the federal government itself as well as in state governments.

While clergymen sometimes attend as guests, they do not direct or conduct the prayer breakfasts. It is left to laymen to choose from their own membership a leader each week. Guests are permitted to attend, but the prayer service is private and, as a rule, is not given any publicity.

The prayer-breakfast idea was originated more than 25 years ago by Abraham Vereide of Seattle, Wash., who formed an organization known as International Christian Leadership. Its purpose was to encourage the formation of prayer-breakfast groups throughout the country. No denominational affiliation has been required, and most of the breakfast groups are composed of members of all faiths.

The Senate and House breakfast groups have been in existence for a number of years, and now are well known. In the meetings of the Senate group, there are usually about 15 to 20 Senators present, though not the same ones every week. There are usually 50 to 75 Representatives in the House group. These meetings have unquestionably played an important part in cementing the friendships and associations of many members of Congress with each other.

The "Presidential Prayer Breakfast" was first held during the Eisenhower administration, and this week's was the 16th.

Drew Pearson Says Gen. Westmoreland, Though Caught Off Base, Will Remain

WASHINGTON—Friends of Lyndon Johnson have been concerned over the possibility that personal loyalty plus the experienced eye he keeps on Capitol Hill will put him in a position where he will not relieve Gen. William Westmoreland as commander in Vietnam.

One reason for the efficiency of World War II was the fact that Gen. George Marshall, military genius of that war, relieved or fired 19 generals, sometimes even during battle.

Gen. George Patton, a great combat soldier, was relieved for slapping a sick soldier in Sicily. Gen. Douglas MacArthur was abruptly fired by President Truman, and the war in Korea went far better under Gen. Matt Ridgeway who replaced him.

Gen. Walter Short and Admiral H. E. Kimmel were relieved and disciplined by President Roosevelt for failure to be on the alert at Pearl Harbor.

However, Gen. Westmoreland, who was caught badly off base last week in Saigon despite advance notice of the exact day of the attack, seems likely to retain his command.

This is not the first time the handsome commander has been under fire. Secretary of Defense McNamara has had very definite policy differences with him over his use of troops and has voiced criticism within the White House and the Defense Department. His points of difference involved:

1. Failure to transfer American troops from housekeeping chores to the front lines. This would obviate sending so many U. S. troops to South Vietnam, McNamara argued.
2. Using more South Vietnamese troops and requiring the Vietnamese to arrest their draft dodgers, of whom there are about 90,000 roaming the streets of Saigon.
3. Training South Vietnamese troops in guerrilla warfare rather than in conventional warfare.

4. Swamping South Vietnam with so many American troops, which McNamara claimed upset the local economy and increased resentment against the United States.

Westmoreland's Campaign . . . These differences, never acrimonious, have been expressed over more than a year.

On March 12 last year, President Johnson flew to Guam for a series of conferences with Westmoreland, taking with him Gen. Bruce Palmer, the commander who did such a brilliant job in the Dominican Republic. It was planned to replace Westmoreland with either Palmer or Gen. Creighton Abrams, deputy chief of staff, not because of the above differences, but because he had served more than two years. It is routine to relieve a commander after a two-year hitch, and Westmoreland deserved a rest.

However, something changed this transfer.

It's suspected that one reason was politics. Westmoreland happens to come from South Carolina. So does one of the most powerful men on Capitol Hill, Rep. Mendel Rivers, alcoholic chairman of the House Armed Services Committee; so also does another vocal and influential hawk, Sen. Strom Thurmond, a major general in the Army Reserve. Both are dedicated, determined defenders of their fellow South Carolinian.

So, despite the fact that the Viet Cong conquest of pockets of Saigon including the American embassy has become a subject of snickering conversation among even our allies, it's likely that Gen. Westmoreland will remain.

Hoover vs. Clark

Attorney General Ramsey Clark talked on civil liberties before the committee at large of the Liberal party of New York last week, quoting Dante, Thoreau, Emerson, and Louis Carroll of "Alice in Wonderland." Afterward he was subjected to questions.

The first came from Oliver Pilat, author of the new book, "Lindsay's Campaign," which takes the mayor of New York through the fascinating wonderland of Manhattan politics. "Was it true, as indicated by Drew Pearson in a column yesterday," asked Pilat, "that you and J. Edgar Hoover have given President Johnson contradictory versions as to the origin of the Bobby Baker investigation?"

"Drew who?" asked the Attorney General, sparring for time.

Then he replied, "I don't have the facts on which to answer that question."

Eldon Kligen asked if Clark were kept informed on all of Hoover's investigations. He replied that he received information on all current investigations in which he was interested but not necessarily information on everything ever done by the FBI.

"Hoover is twice as old as you are," suggested Henry Root Stern, a New York park official. "Doesn't that complicate your relationship? How do you get along?"

"I describe our relationship as cordial," said Clark, "and he describes it as correct."

This brought a laugh. Victor Riesel, the labor columnist nearly blinded by a labor mobster's acid, then got up to defend Hoover.

"The questions of Ollie Pilat and his friends," said Riesel, "might make it advisable for the Attorney General to say something generally about the FBI."

Thus prodded, Clark said the FBI was a dedicated and disciplined organization, a far-reaching and efficient fact-gathering agency.

Note: Clark did not, however, deny any part of our recent report on his amazing relations with the FBI in which he, as head of the Justice Department, is supposed to be boss of J. Edgar Hoover but wherein Hoover goes over his head direct to the President and is now maneuvering to try to get his boss fired.

GNP Rise Calls for Tears Not Cheers

President Johnson's nearly incredible $186 billion budget, with the tax boost proposal tacked onto it and no real out in last year's non-defense spending, comes at a time loaded with questions in the economy which is supposed to pay for it.

To many in the business community Mr. Johnson sounded as if he had arrived here from outer space for a day and was heading right back. And his apparent optimism about us taxpaying peasants' ability to meet his bills is strictly a one-way street for rejoining. Moreover, pronouncements by Mr. Johnson somehow just do not carry a spirit that calls for all forces to get behind him and charge the hill.

The biggest energy in the economy in 1968 is expected from consumers' spending rather than corporate spending as in past years, and corporate spending is the historic support—the seed—of sustained prosperity.

The forecasts which the President's Council of Economic Advisers, in turn, have tossed to Mr. Johnson have turned out to be nothing but a leaky bean bag.

Moreover, the Council seems to reserve its worst forecasts for the most consequential areas—an achievement for which it holds a nearly unbroken record. Thus when it is wrong in these areas its entire forecast structure folds up like a deck chair and hits the floor.

No forecast is ever more revealing, for example, than that regarding the nation's forthcoming inventories. This forecast contains within itself the assumptions about production, sales, and consumption which are as basic as the classic trilogy: food, clothing and shelter. It embodies estimates of the employment level, the public's ability and willingness—very important—to spend, and, of course, the availability of a money supply to carry the inventories that are forecast.

In short, in this area the Council of Economic Advisers must be right. Otherwise, everybody would be better off, and especially the President of the United States in preparing the budget, if the whole Council simply took a Turkish bath someplace and said nothing.

Well, folks, for 1968, the latest year for which figures are available, the Council of Economic Advisers forecast a "slight decline in inventories" with all the immense ramifications that this good news implies. The inventories turned out to be up—up—$13.4 billion.

Obviously, there will be some good and some bad things in the 1968 economic picture. The gross national product, one of the most elusive and untrustworthy figures in the turbulent history of government statistics, is sure to rise. The Council projects an increment of six to six and a half per cent, or about $50 billion, and a result of $835 billion. But these automatically mount with the higher prices, and to this extent are a subject for tears instead of cheers, although you'd never know this from the President's Budget Message.

Last year the GNP increase was about $45 billion, or 5½ per cent. But the price level went up about three per cent, and each three per cent increase in the price level "increases" the gross national product about $6 billion. The real growth was probably about 2½ per cent. But who would know it?

For 1968 the Council forecasts a six to six and a half per cent growth. The real growth, in contrast to the Council's figures, would be about 2½ per cent.

In addition, the GNP placed a non-rejoicing 1967 forecast for a $20 billion deficit, again financed by money we haven't got, with a similar outlook for 1968—and the Federal debt interest for 1968 will exceed $14 billion. This last item alone is $1.16 billion a month, $38.3 million a day—every day—all mixed into Mr. Johnson's clamor economic. What does the gross national product figure really mean in the face of an incredible potpourri like that?

Neither the Council of Economic Advisers nor President Johnson, who, on the record, has an absolute blind spot about money anyway, seems to be able to see ahead of time the dangers that may be ahead. And this is why such a budget message as we've just received simply makes impossible any sober comment about what the Washington Robin Hoods are doing—except the clear and recordable fact that they are doing us in.

U. N. Nations Offer to Mediate

By BETTY FLYNN

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

UNITED NATIONS—Five nations have offered to act as mediators between the United States and North Korea to obtain the release of the USS Pueblo and its 83-man crew.

The countries—all members of the Security Council—say they are willing to go to Pyongyang, North Korea's capital, Geneva, Switzerland, or any neutral city to negotiate the release of the U. S. espionage ship captured last week off Wonsan.

The United States is reported to be considering the offer, but has reservations on the proposal.

Primarily, they believe that the five-member group, consisting of Algeria, Pakistan, India, Senegal and Ethiopia, may be too unwieldy to conduct meaningful talks.

Secondly, it is believed that the United States feels any discussion opened between the five countries and North Korea may only delay the speedy release of the ship and its crew.

The offer surfaced yesterday during behind-the-scenes talks among Security Council members at U.N. headquarters.

Sensing U. S. Objections, U.N. members have offered another tentative plan. Algeria, India and Japan reportedly have said they would be willing to act as mediators.

This smaller, three-country group, some diplomats believe, would be more acceptable because of the inclusion of Japan, which is considered a strong U. S. ally.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Feb. 5, 1948—A fire destroyed the blacksmith shop of the Brigham Brick Company in East Kingston.

Herman T. Stichman, state housing commissioner, said the city could get state support for a housing project.

William A. Yates was elected the first president of the Kingston Area Council of churches.

U.N. to the two offers was cautious.

Delegates here understand that the United States has taken a strong position that the ship and crew should be released before any talks take place.

"It's beginning to sound like the untenable stalemate that exists on Vietnam," one commented.

North Korea, a relatively isolated community in the diplomatic world, is expected to demand something in return for the ship's return.

No one at the United Nations now seems willing to venture a firm guess on what the outcome of present private consultations may be.

Still current is the proposal that North Korea be invited to participate in a U.N. Security Council debate on all issues pertinent to Korean difficulties.

The United States is reported willing to receive North Korean delegates at the U.N., to discuss differences between North and South Korean authorities stemming from the war which ended in 1953, but only if the Pueblo and its crew are released.

Lay Off Force to Retrieve Pueblo, Pentagon Cautions

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Paradoxically, the military men this reporter has talked to privately seem more dovish on what to do about the USS Pueblo than many civilian officials and legislators. In regard to this incident, in fact, there seem to be few military hawks in the Pentagon.

Senior officers seem almost unanimously agreed the United States must be extremely cautious in using military force in connection with this hijacking of a U.S. Navy ship off the high seas. If military force is used, the feeling seems to be, it should be the minimum amount necessary to recover the ship and its crew.

The military force, if used, should not be applied until all peaceful avenues are exhausted.

Some generals and admirals, in fact, see no military solution. They see the incident as a fait accompli like the Berlin Wall. Says one general: "We were caught flat-footed, but there's little we can do about it now. We may just have to take it and live with it."

Among the military men feelings are strong against a military or economic blockade of North Korea, against shelling or hijacking North Korean navy or commercial ships, against bombing North Korean cities, power plants, dams, industries, military installations or barracks and against any sort of ground offensive against North Korean troops on the 38th parallel in retaliation for the Pueblo hijacking.

Strong feeling among the military men is that if military action is taken, it should be a "quick, precise piece of surgery" limited to retrieving the Pueblo and its crew.

The operation should be accomplished in a way that would make clear to all concerned that retaliation was not intended.

Typical of this attitude, but more hawkish than most, is one unofficial idea being argued among some military men who are not themselves assigned to the problem.

The plan, curiously enough, is somewhat similar to the exploit of Lt. Stephen Decatur more than a century and a half ago when he and a small crew of daring men entered the enemy harbor of Tripoli and destroyed the U.S. frigate Philadelphia which had been captured after running aground.

The idea goes something like this: The United States would send the Soviet Union a note telling in precise detail what this country planned to do.

It would be intended that the contents of this note be clearly spelled out to the North Koreans.

That note would say that over the horizon from Wonsan harbor in North Korea the United States would station a strong array of naval ships able to eliminate the ships, fortifications and all other military installations at Wonsan.

Once these U.S. ships were in place, the United States would prepare an unarmed tug bearing a white flag. At an announced time, the tug would then steam without escort slowly toward the North Korean coast and enter Wonsan harbor.

If not interfered with, the tug would then peacefully proceed to take the Pueblo in tow, bring it out of the harbor and back to U.S. possession.

The note to the Soviet Union would carefully point out that the U.S. fleet would have instructions not to fire if everything went according to schedule.

LBJ Asks Restraint On Wages and Prices

By WILLIAM J. EATON (Chicago Daily News Service)

WASHINGTON — President Johnson exhorted union leaders to settle for "appreciably" less than 5.5 per cent wage-benefit increases in 1968 and urged businessmen to absorb rising costs instead of raising prices.

He made the twin appeals in his economic report to Congress and also created a cabinet committee on price stability to begin a long-term attack on inflationary bottlenecks in industry.

Mr. Johnson warned the wage-price spiral will speed up this year and continue at a rapid rate into 1969 and 1970 without added restraint. "The longer it turns the harder it is to stop," the President said, rejecting any thought of trying to choke off inflation by raising unemployment through higher taxes and tighter money.

"I must again urge—in the strongest terms I know—that unions and business firms exercise the most rigorous restraint in their wage and price determinations in 1968. We must make a decisive turn back toward price stability this year," he added, listing these two requirements:

—The average wage-benefit increase in new labor agreements must begin to move back toward the 3 per cent annual gain in productivity. —Businessmen absorb cost increases wherever possible and avoid raising prices if this would increase their profit margins.

Mr. Johnson named Arthur M. Okun, new Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, to head the newly created cabinet committee.

Its other permanent members will be the secretaries of labor, commerce, treasury and the budget director.

"It will study and recommend—both for private and public action—measures which can improve efficiency, remove bottlenecks, and improve technology in industries which are the source of persistent inflation," Mr. Johnson explained.

"And it will give price stability a high priority in the formulation and administration of all government programs."

Administration officials said the construction industry and medical care services were two examples of high-cost services that might be improved through more effective techniques and procedures.

The cabinet panel shortly will begin a series of meetings with representatives of business, labor unions and the public to try and promote price stability.

Lay Off Force to Retrieve Pueblo, Pentagon Cautions

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Paradoxically, the military men this reporter has talked to privately seem more dovish on what to do about the USS Pueblo than many civilian officials and legislators.

In regard to this incident, in fact, there seem to be few military hawks in the Pentagon.

Senior officers seem almost unanimously agreed the United States must be extremely cautious in using military force in connection with this hijacking of a U.S. Navy ship off the high seas.

If military force is used, the feeling seems to be, it should be the minimum amount necessary to recover the ship and its crew.

The military force, if used, should not be applied until all peaceful avenues are exhausted.

Some generals and admirals, in fact, see no military solution. They see the incident as a fait accompli like the Berlin Wall. Says one general: "We were caught flat-footed, but there's little we can do about it now. We may just have to take it and live with it."

Among the military men feelings are strong against a military or economic blockade of North Korea, against shelling or hijacking North Korean navy or commercial ships, against bombing North Korean cities, power plants, dams, industries, military installations or barracks and against any sort of ground offensive against North Korean troops on the 38th parallel in retaliation for the Pueblo hijacking.

Strong feeling among the military men is that if military action is taken, it should be a "quick, precise piece of surgery" limited to retrieving the Pueblo and its crew.

The operation should be accomplished in a way that would make clear to all concerned that retaliation was not intended.

Typical of this attitude, but more hawkish than most, is one unofficial idea being argued among some military men who are not themselves assigned to the problem.

The plan, curiously enough, is somewhat similar to the exploit of Lt. Stephen Decatur more than a century and a half ago when he and a small crew of daring men entered the enemy harbor of Tripoli and destroyed the U.S. frigate Philadelphia which had been captured after running aground.

The idea goes something like this:

The United States would send the Soviet Union a note telling in precise detail what this country planned to do.

It would be intended that the contents of this note be clearly spelled out to the North Koreans.

That note would say that over the horizon from Wonsan harbor in North Korea the United States would station a strong array of naval ships able to eliminate the ships, fortifications and all other military installations at Wonsan.

Once these U.S. ships were in place, the United States would prepare an unarmed tug bearing a white flag. At an announced time, the tug would then steam with-out escort slowly toward the North Korean coast and enter Wonsan harbor.

If not interfered with, the tug would then peacefully proceed to take the Pueblo in tow, bring it out of the harbor and back to U.S. possession.

The note to the Soviet Union would carefully point out that the U.S. fleet would have instructions not to fire if everything went according to schedule.

LBJ Asks Restraint On Wages and Prices

By WILLIAM J. EATON
(Chicago Daily News Service)

WASHINGTON — President Johnson exhorted union leaders to settle for "appreciably" less than 5.5 per cent wage-benefit increases in 1968 and urged businessmen to absorb rising costs instead of raising prices.

He made the twin appeals in his economic report to Congress and also created a cabinet committee on price stability to begin a long-term attack on inflationary bottlenecks in industry.

Mr. Johnson warned the wage-price spiral will speed up this year and continue at a rapid rate into 1969 and 1970 without added restraint.

"The longer it turns the harder it is to stop," the President said, rejecting any thought of trying to choke off inflation by raising unemployment through higher taxes and tighter money.

"I must again urge—in the strongest terms I know—that unions and business firms exercise the most rigorous restraint in their wage and price determinations in 1968. We must make a decisive turn back toward price stability this year," he added, listing these two requirements:

—The average wage-benefit increase in new labor agreements must begin to move back toward the 3 per cent annual gain in productivity.

—Businessmen absorb cost increases wherever possible and avoid raising prices if this would increase their profit margins.

Mr. Johnson named Arthur M. Okun, new Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, to head the newly created cabinet committee.

Its other permanent members will be the secretaries of labor, commerce, treasury and the budget director.

"It will study and recommend—both for private and public action—measures which can improve efficiency, remove bottlenecks, and improve technology in industries which are the source of persistent inflation," Mr. Johnson explained.

"And it will give price stability a high priority in the formulation and administration of all government programs."

Administration officials said the construction industry and medical care services were two examples of high-cost services that might be improved through more effective techniques and procedures.

The cabinet panel shortly will begin a series of meetings with representatives of business, labor unions and the public to try and promote price stability.

At best, the President's report said, the price rise for 1968 can be slowed down and more stable prices may be re-not halted. If that occurs, stored in the following years.

On Medicaid Cuts

GOPers to Support Rocky

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Strong Republican support was forming in the Legislature today around Gov. Rockefeller's plan for cutting back the state's costly Medicaid program, but Democrats were still wary.

Sen. Norman F. Lent, chairman of a committee that just completed extensive hearings on Medicaid, said over the week-end he believed the Republican-controlled Senate would settle on Rockefeller's plan "or one very much like it."

The Nassau County Republican was to report his findings and views today to Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, who has been hinting of even deeper cuts than Rockefeller proposes.

Travia Objects

At the same time, the Legislature's ranking Democrat, Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia, told The Associated Press the Rockefeller plan went much too far to suit him.

"They've got to convince me they're really in trouble before I'll go along with any cuts," Travia declared.

Lent and Travia commented as the Legislature moved into the second month of its 1968 session. No major legislation was listed on today's Senate or Assembly calendars.

Politically minded inhabitants of the State Capitol shifted their interest instead to the visit of Michigan's Gov. George W. Romney. The GOP presidential hopeful was due in Albany to address two audiences.

Later in the week, on Wednesday and Thursday, the Legislature's fiscal committees will conduct public hearings on Rockefeller's proposed $5.5-billion budget — and the $500-million tax increase he seeks to help balance it.

Since the Medicaid program was enacted in 1965, as a companion to Medicare, Democrats in the Legislature have been arguing for liberal eligibility standards, while Republicans have insisted that the present standards are far too generous.

The program is financed jointly by the federal, state and local governments. It provides a wide range of medical care to persons deemed "medically indigent" — that is, unable to pay for their own care.

After the federal government reduced its financial support of the program, Rockefeller — pointing to its soaring costs — proposed cutbacks in several areas.

Whether a person is eligible for Medicaid is determined by his net annual income — after taxes — and what other resources he has, such as personal savings.

At present, a family of four with net income of $6,000 is eligible. Savings equivalent to 50 per cent of the net income figure are disregarded in figuring eligibility.

Rockefeller proposed to — Drop the eligibility figure for a family of four to $5,400, the level adopted by Congress. Limit the benefits for adults between the ages of 21 and 65 to in-patient medical institution care only.

Cut the exempt savings allowance from 50 per cent of net income to 25 per cent.

Require Medicaid recipients who are not also on the welfare rolls to pay 20 per cent of the cost of all medical services, except in-patient hospital care.

Divided Politically

Lent said his Joint Legislative Committee on Problems of Health, Medicare and Medicaid was divided politically on the governor's plan, with Republicans generally favoring it and Democrats opposing any cut-back.

He said he expected the Senate's GOP majority to reach a consensus to support the governor's proposals, with perhaps some modifications.

Travia said Rockefeller and other Republicans would have to prove to him that the state would be in dire financial trouble unless the Medicaid program were cut back. Even then, he said, he would not be willing to go as far as Rockefeller wants.

In another weekend development, the Assembly's Republican minority leader, Perry B. Duryea Jr., named nine GOP assemblymen to a special subcommittee to look into problems of small businesses.

He said the group would consider the impact of proposed tax increases, among other things. Assemblyman Fred W. Droms Jr. of Rexford, Saratoga County, was appointed chairman of the group.

Joe Urges State Dems To Support LBJ

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick today again urged the New York State Democratic Committee to meet "very soon" to voice its support of President Johnson.

The new request came in response to a letter from Committee John J. Burns advising the Congressman of his intention to call a meeting of the committee "in the relatively near future."

With 150 assembly districts in New York State, and two committees from each district, the Democratic committee has 300 members.

According to informed sources, the committee has not convened in "well over a year."

Responding to a request that Burns convene the committee to pass a resolution in support of the President, the Democratic chairman sent a letter to the Ellenville Democrat in which he said, "The reason we have not set a specific date (for a meeting of the committee) is because we have been discussing among ourselves and also with the Republican Party possible amendments to the law governing the nomination of state-wide candidates."

"Those negotiations will be finished quite soon," The Burns letter also said. "We have expected right along that at the meeting a resolution endorsing President Johnson would be introduced and passed."

"Such resolutions have been routinely passed by the State Committee over the years."

Resnick sent back a letter to Burns saying that the "relatively near future" seems to have a somewhat distant sound, and I would like to respectfully urge once again that this meeting be held very soon, preferably in February."

Resnick called such a move "a significant gesture of unity."

Two Arrested After Brawl

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — A melee that erupted in a tavern on Elmira's East Side early Sunday resulted in the arrest of two persons and injury to five others, three of them policemen.

A crowd of 75 people gathered outside the tavern, and police vehicles were pelted with stones and rocked back and forth as officers tried to place the suspects in a patrol wagon. Order was restored by 40 policemen within an hour.

The disturbance occurred in a predominantly Negro neighborhood.

Arrested in the tavern melee were Frank Cox, a 29-year-old military policeman reportedly home on leave from Vietnam, and William Jefferson, both of Elmira. Cox was charged with second-degree assault and Jefferson with public intoxication, police said.

Authorities said the trouble began after Cox's wife complained that she was annoyed by other patrons in the tavern and her pocketbook was stolen. Cox went to her aid, triggering a shoving match and fights in the barroom, they added.

Patrolmen Howard Everett, 33, and Richard Wandell, 29, who arrived to quell the tavern fight, were injured in a scuffle with Cox, police said. Everett suffered a fractured nose and Wandell a scalp cut.

Among three persons who suffered more minor injuries was Patrolman James Minchin, 22. All were discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital after treatment.

The melee occurred at Ramsey's Place, 30 SE, Fifth St.

College Student Dies in Crash

COLCHESTER, Vt. (AP) — A Norwich University student was killed Sunday night and four others were injured—one critically—when their automobile struck a bridge abutment beside Interstate Route 89 near this suburb north of Burlington.

Killed was Joseph Amendola, 19, of Rye, N.Y.

Robert Oliver, 19, of Frankfort, N.Y., was reported in critical condition at Mary Fletcher Hospital, Burlington.

Hospital officials said the three others were in fair condition. They were David Wiediger, also of Frankfort, William Horton of the Albany, N.Y., suburb of Colonie and George Hengst of Medham, N.J., all 19.

HHH Hunts Birds

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was back in Washington today after a private weekend stay and round of bird-hunting with a prominent Rochester businessman.

Humphrey's hunting party downed "quite a few" birds during a three-hour outing Sunday at the game farm in nearby Mendon of James P. Wilmut, the Monroe County Sheriff's department said. Humphrey was said to have bagged ducks and pheasants.

Humphrey arrived at Wilmut's home Saturday night after a flight from Minneapolis. He returned to Washington Sunday afternoon.

Wilmut, a builder and real-estate developer, is a financial contributor to the Democratic party. Humphrey said the visit was non-political, however.

On Medicaid Cuts

GOPers to Support Rocky

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Strong Republican support was forming in the Legislature today around Gov. Rockefeller's plan for cutting back the state's costly Medicaid program, but Democrats were still wary.

Sen. Norman F. Lent, chairman of a committee that just completed extensive hearings on Medicaid, said over the weekend he believed the Republican-controlled Senate would settle on Rockefeller's plan "or one very much like it."

The Nassau County Republican was to report his findings and views today to Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, who has been hinting of even deeper cuts than Rockefeller proposes.

Travia Objects

At the same time, the Legislature's ranking Democrat, Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia, told The Associated Press the Rockefeller plan went much too far to suit him.

"They've got to convince me they're really in trouble before I'll go along with any cuts," Travia declared.

Lent and Travia commented as the Legislature moved into the second month of its 1968 session. No major legislation was listed on today's Senate or Assembly calendars.

Politically minded inhabitants of the State Capitol shifted their interest instead to the visit of Michigan's Gov. George W. Romney. The GOP presidential hopeful was due in Albany to address two audiences.

Later in the week, on Wednesday and Thursday, the Legislature's fiscal committees will conduct public hearings on Rockefeller's proposed $5.5-billion budget — and the $500-million tax increase he seeks to help balance it.

Since the Medicaid program was enacted in 1965, as a companion to Medicare, Democrats in the Legislature have been arguing for liberal eligibility standards, while Republicans have insisted that the present standards are far too generous.

The program is financed jointly by the federal, state and local governments. It provides a wide range of medical care to persons deemed "medically indigent" — that is, unable to pay for their own care.

After the federal government reduced its financial support of the program, Rockefeller — pointing to its soaring costs — proposed cutbacks in several areas.

Whether a person is eligible for Medicaid is determined by his net annual income — after taxes — and what other resources he has, such as personal savings.

At present, a family of four with net income of $6,000 is eligible. Savings equivalent to 50 per cent of the net income figure are disregarded in figuring eligibility.

Rockefeller proposed to: — Drop the eligibility figure for a family of four to $5,400, the level adopted by Congress. — Limit the benefits for adults between the ages of 21 and 65 to in-patient medical institution care only. — Cut the exempt savings allowance from 50 per cent of net income to 25 per cent. — Require Medicaid recipients who are not also on the welfare rolls to pay 20 per cent of the cost of all medical services, except in-patient hospital care.

Divided Politically
Lent said his Joint Legislative Committee on Problems of Health, Medicare and Medicaid was divided politically on the governor's plan, with Republicans generally favoring it and Democrats opposing any cutback.

He said he expected the Senate's GOP majority to reach a consensus to support the governor's proposals, with perhaps some modifications.

Travia said Rockefeller and other Republicans would have to prove to him that the state would be in dire financial trouble unless the Medicaid program were cut back. Even then, he said, he would not be willing to go as far as Rockefeller wants.

In another weekend development, the Assembly's Republican minority leader, Perry B. Duryea Jr., named nine GOP assemblymen to a special subcommittee to look into problems of small businesses.

He said the group would consider the impact of proposed tax increases, among other things. Assemblyman Fred W. Droms Jr. of Rexford, Saratoga County, was appointed chairman of the group.

Joe Urges State Dems To Support LBJ

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick today again urged the New York State Democratic Committee to meet "very soon to voice its support of President Johnson."

The new request came in response to a letter from Committee John J. Burns advising the Congressman of his intention to call a meeting of the committee "in the relatively near future."

With 150 assembly districts in New York State, and two committees from each district, the Democratic committee has 300 members.

According to informed sources, the committee has not convened in "well over a year."

Responding to a request that Burns convene the committee to pass a resolution in support of the President, the Democratic chairman sent a letter to the Ellenville Democrat in which he said, "The reason we have not set a specific date (for a meeting of the committee) is because we have been discussing among ourselves and also with the Republican Party possible amendments to the law governing the nomination of state-wide candidates."

"Those negotiations will be finished quite soon," The Burns letter also said, "We have expected right along that at the meeting a resolution endorsing President Johnson would be introduced and passed."

"Such resolutions have been routinely passed by the State Committee over the years," Resnick sent back a letter to Burns saying that the "relatively near future" seems to have a somewhat distant sound, and I would like to respectfully urge once again that this meeting be held very soon, preferably in February."

Resnick called such a move "a significant gesture of unity."

Two Arrested After Brawl

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — A melee that erupted in a tavern on Elmira's East Side early Sunday resulted in the arrest of two persons and injury to five others, three of them policemen.

A crowd of 75 people gathered outside the tavern, and police vehicles were pelted with stones and rocked back and forth as officers tried to place the suspects in a patrol wagon. Order was restored by 40 policemen within an hour.

The disturbance occurred in a predominantly Negro neighborhood.

Arrested in the tavern melee were Frank Cox, a 29-year-old military policeman reportedly home on leave from Vietnam, and William Jefferson, both of Elmira. Cox was charged with second degree assault and Jefferson with public intoxication, police said.

Authorities said the trouble began after Cox's wife complained that she was annoyed by other patrons in the tavern and her pocketbook was stolen. Cox went to her aid, triggering a shoving match and fights in the barroom, they added.

Patrolmen Howard Everett, 33, and Richard Wandell, 29, who arrived to quell the tavern fight, were injured in a scuffle with Cox, police said. Everetts suffered a "fractured nose and Wandell a scalp cut."

Among three persons who suffered minor injuries was Patrolman James Minchin, 22. All were discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital after treatment.

The melee occurred at Ramsey's Place, 30 SE. Fifth St.

HHH Hunts Birds

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was back in Washington today after a private weekend stay and round of bird hunting with a prominent Rochester businessman.

Humphrey's hunting party downed "quite a few" birds during a three-hour outing Sunday at the game farm in nearby Mendon of James P. Wilmot, the Monroe County Sheriff's department said.

Humphrey was said to have bagged ducks and pheasants.

Humphrey arrived at Wilmot's home Saturday night after a flight from Minneapolis. He returned to Washington Sunday afternoon.

Wilmot, a builder and real-estate developer, is a financial contributor to the Democratic party. Humphrey aides said the visit was non-political, however.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a large frame house on Maple Avenue, Cementon, Sunday afternoon, despite efforts of volunteer firefighters who fought the flames for hours under the direction of Chief Robert Moon of the Malden West Camp Fire Company.

The house, which had more than 15 rooms, was owned by Salvatore Gordiano of Cementon. It was vacant at the time of the fire.

The roof of the building caved in during the height of the blaze, and firemen had to knock down outer walls to reach the flames with hoses. ### Bridges Show Slight Decrease

A January 1967-1968 comparison of the two Mid-Hudson bridges linking Ulster with Dutchess County shows that both traffic and revenues are down with vehicles rolling across the Mid-Hudson being 21,779 less than last year.

Traffic Safety Breakthrough Seen Possible

NEW YORK — Motor Vehicle Commissioner Vincent L. Tofany said today that New York State could make a breakthrough in traffic safety by approval of Governor Rockefeller's 14-point program.

Addressing the State Association of Towns annual meeting, Commissioner Tofany called the traffic safety proposals as progressive as the Governor's approaches to education, transportation, and water pollution. The 14 points cover such areas as driver training and examination, traffic law enforcement, and traffic safety administration. The recommendations include a prerequisite of three hours' training in highway safety for new drivers, and a pilot rehabilitation program for certain types of persistent violators.

Commissioner Tofany said the traffic safety program would utilize the talent and experience of local leaders in reducing the weekly average of 6,700 injuries resulting from traffic accidents in New York State.

He also outlined the design features of the New York State Safety Sedan, and urged the association to aggressively promote traffic safety in its 912 member towns.

Savings Banks Assets Listed

A record increase of almost 10 per cent in gross assets of New York State's savings banks occurred in 1967. The $3,496,895,000 or 9.81 per cent gain in 1967 brought total assets to $39,160,475,000 on Dec. 31. By way of contrast, the increase in total assets for 1966 was only about half of the 1967 figure, $1,773,203,000 or 5.23 per cent the Savings Banks Association of New York State announced today.

The December 1967 gain in assets was $144,453,000, or 0.37 per cent, compared to the $199,091,000 or 0.56 per cent increase for December 1966.

Real estate mortgage loan holdings, excluding building loans, increased by almost $2 billion or 6.77 per cent in 1967, the exact figure being $1,954,391,000. This compares with a net gain of $1,649,841,000 or 6.06 per cent for the previous year. The 1967 investment in Bonds, and Debentures was $1,327,722,000, an increase of about 56 per cent.

Probing Death Of Teen-Ager

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — State Police probed today the violent death of a teen-aged youth whose frozen body was discovered in a snow-bank along a dirt road south of here.

Troopers said they considered the death a homicide. Albert Sitterly, 15, of Rensselaer, had suffered a fractured skull, troopers said today. The body was found Sunday by two rabbit hunters along Sweet Road in Malta, a hamlet about 20 miles north of the youth's home.

Troopers said Sitterly's mother had reported him missing to Rensselaer Police on Jan. 18.

Gets 45 Days

Accused of hitting another man on the head with a spade causing injuries, Devoiry Anderson, 49, of Willowtree Drive, Milton, was arrested Sunday afternoon by Highland state troopers on a third degree assault charge. Arraigned before Marboro Town Justice Patrick Mataraza, Anderson pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 45 days in the Ulster County jail. Trooper Jack Ostmark said the victim of the assault was Edgar James Thomas, of Milton Turnpike, who was treated at Vassar Hospital for head injuries and later released. Trooper John Codelle made the arrest.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed a slightly higher trend early Monday. Trading was active.

Gains outnumbered losses by a narrow margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Due to softness in some of its blue chip components, the Dow Jones industrial average was off .35 at 863.21.

Among heavily traded issues, Teledyne rose more than 3, Moore McCormack 2 and Glen Alden a fraction.

General Time slipped more than a point.

Wall Street showed some relief that the weekend had passed without the bad situation in Asia getting drastically worse. Some further encouragement was ascribed to reports—even though they were officially denied—that agreement had been reached for release of the Pueblo's crew.

Control Data picked up about 2 points.

Chrysler, Homestake, Johns-Manville and U.S. Smelting were up about a point each. Eastman Kodak slid more than a point.

Abandons Try On CR Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dem-race, color, religion or national ocratic Leader Mike Mansfield origin. Southern opponents of the bill of Montana has abandoned efforts to get a vote on a pending civil rights bill until after the Senate returns Feb. 14 from a Lincoln day holiday.

Mansfield said in an interview he expects a compromise version of the measure to be offered shortly. But he said he won't try to get a vote on it before the Senate recesses for the holiday Thursday.

"This bill is not going to please either side in the controversy," he said. "Members will want to talk about it and I don't see any possibility of getting a vote by Thursday."

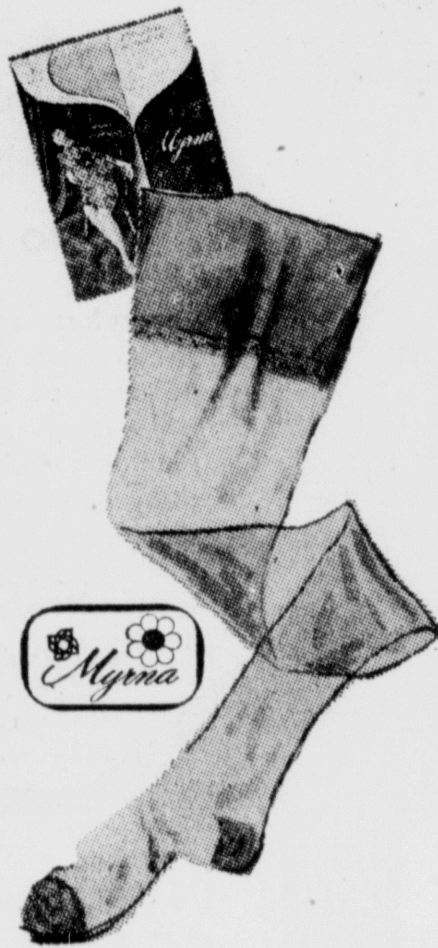

The Senate already has had 12 days of desultory debate over the measure. It would make it a federal crime to interfere by force or threats with the exercise of federally-guaranteed rights because of an individual's any compromise, has contended the measure should be broadened to protect the rights of all persons, not just those of civil rights workers and Negroes. Senate liberals want the legislation limited strictly to deal with crimes in which race is a factor, contending crimes against Negroes often go unpunished in state courts. Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said in a weekend report to constituents the argument over the bill is keeping the Senate from taking up other pressing national problems. "It is my belief that in the field of race relations and race improvement Congress has gone just about as far as it is possible legally to go," he said.

Traffic Safety Breakthrough Seen Possible

NEW YORK — Motor Vehicle Commissioner Vincent L. Tofany said today that New York State could make a breakthrough in traffic safety by approval of Governor Rockefeller's 14-point program.

Addressing the State Association of Towns annual meeting, Commissioner Tofany called the traffic safety proposals as progressive as the Governor's approaches to education, transportation, and water pollution.

The 14 points cover such areas as driver training and examination, traffic law enforcement, and traffic safety administration. The recommendations include a prerequisite of three hours' training in highway safety for new drivers, and a pilot rehabilitation program for certain types of persistent violators.

Commissioner Tofany said the traffic safety program would utilize the talent and experience of local leaders in reducing the weekly average of 6,700 injuries resulting from traffic accidents in New York State.

He also outlined the design features of the New York State Safety Sedan, and urged the association to aggressively promote traffic safety in its 912 member towns.

Savings Banks Assets Listed

A record increase of almost 10 per cent in gross assets of New York State's savings banks occurred in 1967. The $3,496,895,000 or 9.81 per cent gain in 1967 brought total assets to $39,160,475,000 on Dec. 31. By way of contrast, the increase in total assets for 1966 was only about half of the 1967 figure, $1,773,203,000 or 5.23 per cent the Savings Banks Association of New York State announced today.

The December 1967 gain in assets was $144,453,000, or 0.37 per cent, compared to the $199,091,000 or 0.56 per cent increase for December 1966.

Real estate mortgage loan holdings, excluding building loans, increased by almost $2 billion or 6.77 per cent in 1967, the exact figure being $1,954,391,000. This compares with a net gain of $1,649,841,000 or 6.06 per cent for the previous year. The 1967 investment in Bonds, and Debentures was $1,327,722,000, an increase of about 56 per cent.

Holding the assembly in place is a throw-away plastic tool, developed by IBM engineers, which replaces a 26-piece steel tool at 1/3000 the cost. It's other advantages include improved testing procedures and a 25 per cent reduction in assembly operations. It also eliminates high maintenance costs associated with the steel tool. ## Abandons Try On CR Vote of Montana has abandoned efforts to get a vote on a pending civil rights bill until after the Senate returns Feb. 14 from a Lincoln day holiday.

Mansfield said in an interview he expects a compromise version of the measure to be offered shortly. But he said he won't try to get a vote on it before the Senate recesses for the holiday Thursday.

"This bill is not going to please either side in the controversy," he said. "Members will want to talk about it and I don't see any possibility of getting the vote by Thursday."

The Senate already has had 12 days of desultory debate over the measure. It would make it a federal crime to interfere by force or threats with the exercise of federally-guaranteed rights because of an individual's race, color, religion or national origin.

Southern opponents of the bill call it discriminatory. Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, who may hold the key votes on any compromise, has contended the measure should be broadened to protect the rights of all persons, not just those of civil rights workers and Negroes.

Senate liberals want the legislation limited strictly to deal with crimes in which race is a factor, contending crimes against Negroes often go unpunished in state courts.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said in a weekend report to constituents the argument over the bill is keeping the Senate from taking up other pressing national problems.

"It is my belief that in the field of race relations and race improvement Congress has gone just about as far as it is possible legally to go," he said.

Fredonia Couple Found Dead at Inn

FREDONIA, N.Y. (AP) — The murder of Mrs. John B. Maloney and the death of her husband remained shrouded in mystery today as police pressed their investigation and sought a motive.

A janitor found the bodies of the couple Saturday in their suite at the White Inn, a hotel and restaurant they formerly operated in this Southwestern New York village.

State Police said Mrs. Maloney, 58, had been bludgeoned and beaten with a four-pound bookend. An autopsy Sunday disclosed a compound depressed skull fracture and a laceration of the brain as the cause of death, Coroner Ralph J. Wallace of Chautauque County said.

The 62-year-old Maloney, who opened a liquor store near Fredonia after selling the inn in 1966, had suffered no apparent injuries, Wallace said. He had been under a doctor's care in recent months for diabetes and heart disease, but the autopsy showed he had not died of a coronary attack, the coroner added.

Wallace withheld a ruling on Maloney's death pending the outcome of toxicology tests. The results would be known in about a week, he said.

Investigators said they ruled out robbery as a motive in the deaths because large sums of money in the suite had been left untouched. The door to the apartment was unlocked but had not been forced open, they added. There were no signs of a struggle.

The couple married several years, had been devoted to each other, detectives said.

The Maloneys operated the inn for 20 years before selling it, but they continued to make their home there. They had no children.

The inn is at 52 E. Main St.

Seminars Set For Hospital In Rhinebeck

Northern Dutchess Hospital of Rhinebeck is instituting a series of psychiatric seminars for its nursing staff.

Michael C. Mazzarella, administrator for the hospital, said that hourly seminars have already started and that they will be under the direction of Dr. Joseph Dorsey, senior psychiatrist at the Dutchess County hospital.

Dr. Dorsey will be assisted by Dr. Elliott Brown, coordinator of psychiatric services for the Astor Home for Children, and John Grogan, chief psychiatric social worker for the Astor Child Guidance Center.

Grogan explained that the seminars will "stress the importance of prevention, early discovery of symptoms, and treatment as alternatives to eventual mental hospital hospitalization."

Chief administrator Mazzarella also pointed out that the hospital had been donated a painting by Rhinebeck resident Louis Burgess.

Burgess, an artist, donated the canvass called "Winter Wonder — Early Spring," a landscape done in oils.

Mazzarella explained that the painting is part of the hospital's project to make the institution "as attractive as possible."

A janitor found the bodies of the couple Saturday in their suite at the White Inn, a hotel and restaurant they formerly operated in this Southwestern New York village.

State Police said Mrs. Maloney, 58, had been bludgeoned and beaten with a four-pound bookend. An autopsy Sunday disclosed a compound depressed skull fracture and a laceration of the brain as the cause of death.

Coroner Ralph J. Wallace of Chautauque County said, "The 62-year-old Maloney, who opened a liquor store near Fredonia after selling the inn in 1966, had suffered no apparent injuries," Wallace said.

He had been under a doctor's care in recent months for diabetes and heart disease, but the autopsy showed he had not died of a coronary attack, the coroner added.

Wallace withheld a ruling on Maloney's death pending the outcome of toxicology tests. The results would be known in about a week, he said.

Investigators said they ruled out robbery as a motive in the deaths because large sums of money in the suite had been left untouched. The door to the apartment was unlocked but had not been forced open, they added. There were no signs of a struggle.

The couple married several years, had been devoted to each other, detectives said.

The Maloneys operated the inn for 20 years before selling it, but they continued to make their home there. They had no children.

The inn is at 52 E. Main St.

Seminars Set For Hospital In Rhinebeck

Northern Dutchess Hospital of Rhinebeck is instituting a series of psychiatric seminars for its nursing staff.

Michael C. Mazzarella, administrator for the hospital, said that hourly seminars have already started and that they will be under the direction of Dr. Joseph Dorsey, senior psychiatrist at the Dutchess County hospital.

Dr. Dorsey will be assisted by Dr. Elliott Brown, coordinator of psychiatric services for the Astor Home for Children, and John Grogan, chief psychiatric social worker for the Astor Child Guidance Center.

Grogan explained that the seminars will "stress the importance of prevention, early discovery of symptoms, and treatment as alternatives to eventual mental hospital hospitalization."

Chief administrator Mazzarella also pointed out that the hospital had been donated a painting by Rhinebeck resident Louis Burgess.

Mazzarella explained that the painting is part of the hospital's project to make the institution "as attractive as possible."

UCCC Slates Writing Course

Ulster County Community College will offer a Creative Writing course in the evening at its Kingston Classroom Building on Wednesday nights from 7 to 9:40 p. m. starting Feb. 7.

This is the first time the college is offering this course.

There will be late registration today through Thursday this week at the Kingston Classroom Building, 214 West Chestnut Street.

Creative Writing is a course designed for students who show evidence of more than average ability in writing and which provides opportunity for practice through individual assignments in the essay, short story, poetry and drama.

The aim of the course is to help students to develop their own facilities in writing rather than imposing writing formulas upon them.

Romney Due In Albany For Speeches

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Michigan's Gov. George Romney was due in New York's capital city today to put his White House wares on display and the approving eye of "non-candidate" Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The governor, one of Romney's biggest boosters, sent his private plane to New Hampshire to bring the Republican presidential hopeful here for two speaking appearances.

The first is the annual winter meeting of the New York State Society of Newspaper Editors. The second is a Lincoln Day dinner of the Albany County Republican organization.

Rockefeller's role was to introduce Romney at both affairs.

Romney, the first Republican to declare for his party's presidential nomination, has been campaigning hard in New Hampshire in hope of winning the state's presidential primary election. Polls have indicated that he is running far behind the other declared candidate, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

At the same time, various polls have indicated that Rockefeller's own stock as a potential nominee is on the rise. But the governor insists that he is backing Romney and will not become a candidate himself.

Rockefeller aides said they regarded Romney's appearance at the editors' meeting as a choice opportunity for him to make a good impression on the men who run New York's newspapers. Romney has not been happy with his portrayal in the press generally.

UCCC Features Poet, Thursday

Peter Kane Dufault, a well known Hudson Valley poet, will talk poetry and read his own poems at Ulster County Community College at 1:40 p. m. on Thursday, Feb. 8.

His talk, open to the public, will take place in the Teaching Auditorium of the John Burroughs Science Building at the College's Stone Ridge campus. There is no admission charge.

"The College is pleased to present this cultural event for our students and the people in the community," said President George B. Erbstein, "and we hope many in the community will take advantage of this opportunity to hear Mr. Dufault."

In addition, Dufault will speak to a Poetry class at the College taught by Mrs. Sherry Solomon.

Dufault is the author of two poetry books, Angel of Accident published in 1953, and For Some Stringed Instrument published in 1957.

The poet served as a bomber pilot in 1943 and 1944 in World War II, and after the war he attended Harvard College, graduating in 1947.

Dufault's jobs have been varied, including pots and pans salesman, tree surgeon, reporter, feature writer, photographer and editor. He also is an accomplished fencer. He has taught at Marist College in Poughkeepsie, Bennett College in Millbrook and the Barlow School in Amenia. His poems have been published in Harper's Magazine, the Atlantic, Saturday Review, New York Magazine and in various other magazines and anthologies.

This program is being made possible through partial support from the New York State Council on the Arts in cooperation with the Poetry Center of the 92nd Street YM-YWHA, New York City. Established in 1960 by the state legislature at the request of Gov. Rockefeller, the 15-member council provides a variety of services in the performing and visual arts available to community groups throughout the state. First there's Platformate. And then there's the detergent.

(Among several good mileage ingredients in Super Shell gasoline.)

	What it is	How it helps mileage	Under what driving conditions
Platformate	Platformate is the petroleum industry's technical term for a gasoline ingredient whose molecules have been torn apart and then reformed with the help of a Platinum catalyst . The result of Platinum reforming is called Platformate.	The Platformate in Super Shell contains 11% more energy per gallon than 100-octane aviation fuel. Extra energy equals extra mileage. Shell pioneered the use of Platformate as a major ingredient in gasoline. Today other good gasolines also contain it. (See note on formulation at bottom of chart.)	Platformate helps your mileage most when you're driving at sustained highway speeds—the conditions shown in the Super Shell mileage demonstrations on television.
Detergent	It's just what it sounds like—a powerful cleaning agent with chemical properties that are similar to those of a good laundry detergent.	Super Shell's detergent cleans engine parts exposed to the flow of fuel. It prevents deposits from building up around the carburetor's metering system, which controls the air-fuel mixture. If allowed to build up, deposits could cause an improper air-fuel mixture, reducing mileage.	Super Shell's detergent helps under all driving conditions. (For more information on our detergent, and on other Super Shell ingredients, watch the Shell Answer Man on TV, and listen to him on radio.)
TCP	TCP is Shell's trademark for a unique gasoline additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by Shell's U.S. Patent No. 2889212. In today's Super Shell, the chemical name for TCP's phosphorus additive is cresyl-diphenyl-phosphate .	Nothing can stop deposits from forming on spark plugs. These deposits can cause spark-plug misfire and reduce mileage. TCP combines chemically with certain deposits to keep spark plugs from misfiring, thus preventing mileage loss.	Deposits left untreated are most likely to cause spark-plug misfire and affect mileage when your engine is working hard—accelerating, for example. So that's when TCP helps mileage the most.
Butane	Butane is a highly volatile ingredient—which means that it will turn from a liquid to a vapor (like water turning to steam) at very low temperatures. Butane will actually boil on ice .	Butane's volatility helps your engine fire up fast in cold weather. The quicker your start, the less gasoline you use before you get going. A single slow start might not affect your mileage much—but it could really add up over a long winter.	The colder the weather, the more Butane helps. It can be particularly important if you do a lot of short-haul driving, calling for several cold-engine starts every day. NOTE: Butane also helps mileage by working with Pentane mix (see below) to warm up your engine in a hurry.
Pentane Mix	Like Butane, Pentane mix is a volatile ingredient. It helps your engine warm up quickly and smoothly. Its hydrocarbon molecules are small —so they serve as kindling in the Super Shell formula.	Misfiring during warm-up means coughing, bucking—and wasted fuel. Pentane mix works with Butane to prevent that misfiring. With a fast warm-up, your automatic choke can be adjusted to turn off sooner, keeping down the amount of extra fuel it has to send to your engine.	Pentane mix is especially valuable if you often drive only a few miles at a time, virtually warming up your engine the whole way. The cooler the weather, the more gasoline you can waste during warm-up—and the more Pentane mix helps.

No two gasolines are formulated quite the same way

There are few secrets in the making of gasoline. Although Shell has pioneered its share of major improvements—the use of TCP, for example, and of Platformate—the ingredients in today's Super Shell are known to other oil companies. Most of them are used in one gasoline or another.

But the formula varies from gasoline to gasoline. No two oil companies make all of their ingredients quite the same way. They don't blend them in the same proportions. And they don't use all the same ingredients.

There is a certain art to the formulating of gasoline if you are to get good mileage under all driving conditions—no matter what sort of driving you do, no matter where you do it, and no matter what time of year it happens to be.

The blend must be carefully balanced. And it must be modified from time to time as the seasons change, and from place to place as the climate and altitudes change.

The right formulation.
Those are the reasons we call Super Shell good mileage gasoline.

Freeman Ad Man Wins Award for Layout

Freeman Advertising Staffer Robert Saehloff, a man used to winning awards for his work, won another one for his layout of the Benson A. Krom insurance-real estate office grand opening.

This full-page layout on page nine in the Sept. 15 edition of The Freeman was judged "one of the best entries submitted by our newspaper subscribers throughout the United States and Canada," according to Multi-Ad Services Inc., Peoria, Ill.

The certificate of award plaque reads in part, "this certificate is awarded in recognition of meritorious achievement in the use of art work in creating distinctive newspaper display advertising."

The Krom insurance-real estate agency receives a like award. In a letter to The Freeman announcing the award, it was noted that the awards are issued for their idea value in the Ad-Builder Case History Contest.

Saehloff received plaudits from Mr. Krom prior to the award indicating that the advertisement "paid off" as Mr. Krom said, "many, many people jammed our quarters throughout our day-long grand opening celebration."

He said the advertising layout in every way projected the distinctive image that he had wished publicized.

In November 1959, Saehloff, who operates out of The Freeman branch office at 239 Fair Street, won a national award for a series of ads prepared for Kingston Savings Bank on the occasion of its 85th anniversary.

Multi-Ad Service made the award at that time. In July 1960, Saehloff won another Multi-Ad award for a series of ads for Kaplan Furniture Company, 66-68 North Front Street.

The Krom insurance-real estate agency receives a like award. In a letter to The Freeman announcing the award, it was noted that the awards are issued for their idea value in the Ad-Builder Case History Contest.

Saehloff received plaudits from Mr. Krom prior to the award indicating that the advertisement "paid off" as Mr. Krom said, "many, many people jammed our quarters throughout our day-long grand opening celebration."

He said the advertising layout in every way projected the distinctive image that he had wished publicized.

In November 1959, Saehloff, who operates out of The Freeman branch office at 239 Fair Street, won a national award for a series of ads prepared for Kingston Savings Bank on the occasion of its 85th anniversary.

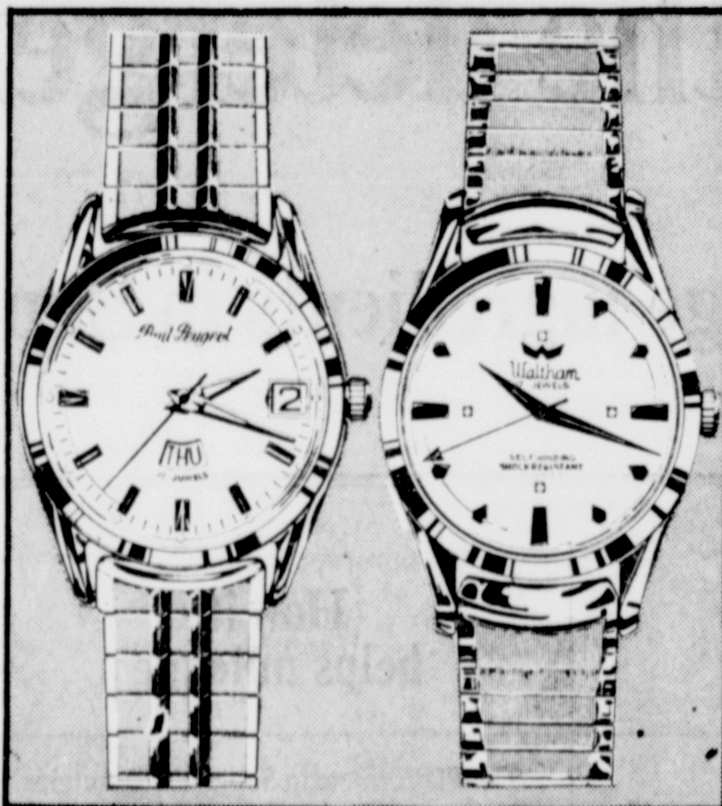

Multi-Ad Service made the award at that time.

In July 1960, Saehloff won another Multi-Ad award for a series of ads for Kaplan Furniture Company, 66-68 North Front Street.

SUMAC Gives Hope to Ulster Migrants

By HUGH REYNOLDS

It's called SUMAC (Southern Ulster Migrant Assistance Committee) and it attempts to help migrant farm workers with the assistance of various local, county, state and federal agencies.

SUMAC provides service, guidance and leadership for migrant families and the communities they work in. Coordinator of the educational program is Will Boon, a former migrant himself. Working with Boon is Harley F. Taylor, formerly a superintendent of schools in Delaware.

An important source of leadership and guidance comes from Dr. George Blair of the office of the New York State Education Department. Dr. Blair is associate director of the education department's center of innovation.

From the federal level, assistance has been forthcoming from Thomas Holt, in charge of the Migrant Division of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The State University College at New Paltz has supplied volunteer student teachers who work on a one-on-one ration with migrants. There have been 23 volunteers.

The Highland School District, under the leadership of Donald Baines, district principal and Jack Lockledge, elementary principal, have conducted a comprehensive program within their schools termed "The True Migrant."

Classroom Facilities
The New Paltz School District under the leadership of Frederick Dipple, district principal and Frank Hamilton, business manager, has provided classroom facilities, teachers and guidance.

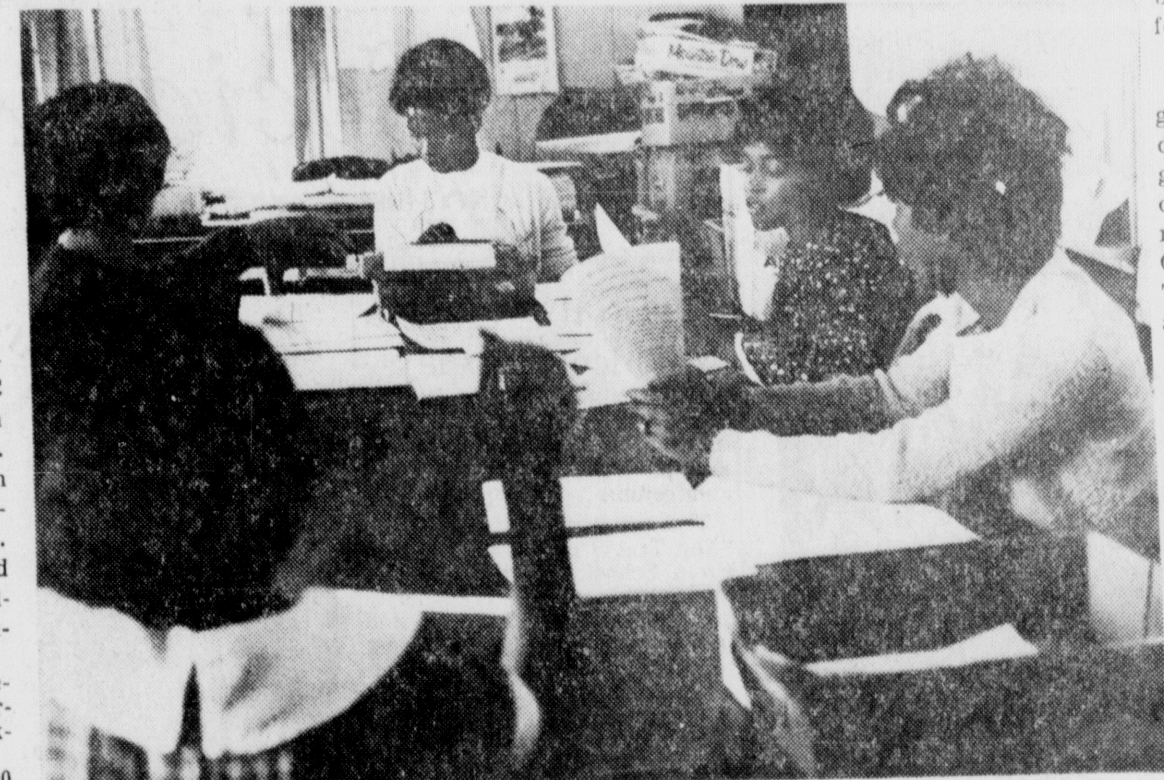

The Board of Cooperative Educational Services (BOCES), under the direction of Henry Hopper, county superintendent, has given assistance and counsel. They have provided pre-vocational classes in auto mechanics and offered SUMAC classroom or shop facilities with seasoned vocational instructors.

BOCES served as the medium through which state migrant assistance funds came to SUMAC. Hopper and his staff operated four mobile units this year. Walter Braisted of BOCES was supervisor of the project.

The Ulster County Health Department supplied health services with nurses, social workers and community aides.

SUMAC services some 1,500 migrants in southern Ulster County. These migrants are spread throughout some 120 camps and population ranges from a low of 20 or 25 to as many as 120 persons per camp.

berries and 25 cents per bushel for pears and apples.

Constant Ethnic Makeup

The ethnic makeup of migrants remains constant up and down the East Coast. The local group includes about 100 Jamaicans, 25 Puerto Ricans and the rest Negroes from Florida, Georgia and North Carolina. They come in early summer and are gone by December.

According to Mrs. Pearl C. Lewis, chairman of the SUMAC board of directors, "The Southern Ulster Migrant Assistance Committee is just what the names implies it is. It is people with programs designed and meant to do good things with in. It is not another agency, government, or other wise, with another philosophy to be brought to trial. True, it does specialize in migrant workers, but that's where the speciality stops. SUMAC operates almost like all economic opportunity services—primarily for the good of the poor and the well being of the entire community in which they reside."

3,000 Job Titles Open to Women in New York State Government

If you are a woman for new or expanded job opportunities in any one of a variety of career fields, consider New York State Government wants and needs women employees. Career openings exist of which many women are unaware. A new leaflet, written by Mrs. Ersa Poston, President of the New York State Civil Service Commission, and recently published by the New York State Commerce Department Women's Program, outlines some of the more than 3,000 titles which can be filled by qualified women.

According to Mrs. Poston, annual salaries for these positions range from $3,600 to $26,000. There are opportunities on all levels of training, education and experience. Many jobs have no specific educational or experience requirements. If you wish to continue your studies, many State agencies offer scholarships and other forms of tuition assistance to eligible students, Mrs. Poston notes.

Health services currently involve more than 45,000 State employees, including physicians, nurses, therapists, nutritionists and dietitians. Capable women are much in demand in all these specialties, and in many non-professional jobs as well.

Besides teaching, the field of education offers opportunities to women in research, planning, and curriculum evaluation with

New York State Government. One of the largest State agencies, the Educational Department has jobs in many diverse fields, such as Industrial Education and Educational Guidance.

Have you a background in the legal profession? The New York State Department of Law, says Mrs. Poston, is one of the world's largest law offices. Presently, a woman is serving as Solicitor General, and she reports that more and more women are holding positions in this department. There may be a place for you, too!

Many promotion opportunities as well as the great personal rewards that can come from helping and serving others may be found in social work for New York State. Social casework, psychiatric and medical social work and correctional casework are some of the challenging areas of the social work field.

Science is an intriguing field which attracts more talented and qualified women each year.

If your interests and abilities lie in chemistry, bacteriology, forestry or other scientific areas there may be an exciting and rewarding career awaiting you in New York State Government.

Hundreds of other opportunities exist in such fields as accounting, mathematics, insurance, administration, public relations, economics, electronic data processing and many more. Secretarial and clerical employees are always in demand.

For information on how to start a career in State Government, write to the Field Recruiting Section, New York State Department of Civil Service, State Campus, Albany, N.Y. 12226. A free copy of the leaflet on "Opportunities for Women in New York State Government" by Mrs. Ersa Poston is available from the New York State Commerce Department Women's Program, whose offices are located at 112 State Street, Albany, N.Y. 12207 and 230 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Doing the Right Thing

Speaking Foreign Language Like Telling Secret to Those Who Don't Understand

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to know if it is proper to speak a foreign language in front of others who do not understand the language.

Dear Mr. Tully: Speaking a foreign language in front of those who do not understand it is exactly like whispering a secret to someone when others are present. Those who do not know what you are saying feel left out, and are apt to think you are making remarks about them. In short, it is not proper. Occasionally it is necessary to explain a remark in one's native tongue to one who does not speak English well. In that case, you should turn to others and briefly explain what you are saying.

Disposing of Rings From First Marriage

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it correct for a gentleman marrying for the second time to give his fiancée a diamond engagement ring? If so, and she has been married before, what does she do with her first wedding and engagement rings?—Phyllis

Dear Phyllis: A gentleman certainly may give his fiancée a diamond ring, whether she be first, second, or third. At the time he gives it to her, she removes her first engagement ring. She removes the wedding ring at the time of her re-marriage. She either keeps them for a son or daughter of her first marriage, or has the engagement ring reset into a different piece of jewelry. The wedding ring she may put away or discard according to how she feels about her first husband.

Method of Card Delivery Matter of Choice

Dear Mrs. Post: Should a husband or wife mail a birthday, Christmas, or Valentine card to each other, or should they just be handed to each other with or without a gift?—Ruth B.

Dear Mrs. B: There is no hard-and-fast rule. Some women feel that it is more fun to receive a card in the mail, perhaps reminding them of their courtship days. Others prefer the intimacy and special meaning of a card found on a pillow or at their place at the breakfast table. If a gift is included, it is given in person and the card usually accompanies it.

Will Meet Tonight

St. Mary's Altar-Rosary Society will hold its regular monthly meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the first-floor meeting room of the school hall. After the business meeting, a group quilt project will be started. Those who wish to participate should bring needle and thread. Members are also requested to bring used greeting cards and discarded costume jewelry to the meeting.

Mrs. Kay Reno, chairman of the Valentine party, has announced that reservations must be made with her by February 9. The Valentine party will be held Thursday, Feb. 15, at 7 p. m. in the school hall. A buffet supper will be served and secret pal gifts will be exchanged.

Anyone needing transportation to the meeting or the Valentine party should contact Mrs. Barbara Betkowski or Mrs. Peggy McHugh.

3,000 Job Titles Open to Women in New York State Government

If you are a woman for new or expanded job opportunities in any one of a variety of career fields, consider New York State Government wants and needs women employees. Career openings exist of which many women are unaware. A new leaflet, written by Mrs. Ersia Poston, President of the New York State Civil Service Commission, and recently published by the New York State Commerce Department Women's Program, outlines some of the more than 3,000 titles which can be filled by qualified women.

According to Mrs. Poston, annual salaries for these positions range from $3,600 to $26,000. There are opportunities on all levels of training, education and experience. Many jobs have no specific educational or experience requirements. If you wish to continue your studies, many State agencies offer scholarships and other forms of tuition assistance to eligible students, Mrs. Poston notes.

Health services currently involve more than 45,000 State employees, including physicians, nurses, therapists, nutritionists and dietitians. Capable women are much in demand in all these specialties, and in many non-professional jobs as well.

Besides teaching, the field of education offers opportunities to women in research, planning, and curriculum evaluation with

New York State Government. One of the largest State agencies, the Educational Department has jobs in many diverse fields, such as Industrial Education and Educational Guidance.

Have you a background in the legal profession? The New York State Department of Law, says Mrs. Poston, is one of the world's largest law offices. Presently, a woman is serving as Solicitor General, and she reports that more and more women are holding positions in this department. There may be a place for you, too!

Many promotion opportunities as well as the great personal rewards that can come from helping and serving others may be found in social work for New York State. Social casework, psychiatric and medical social work and correctional casework are some of the challenging areas of the social work field.

Science is an intriguing field which attracts more talented and qualified women each year.

If your interests and abilities lie in chemistry, bacteriology, forestry or other scientific areas there may be an exciting and rewarding career awaiting you in New York State Government.

Hundreds of other opportunities exist in such fields as accounting, mathematics, insurance, administration, public relations, economics, electronic data processing and many more. Secretarial and clerical employees are always in demand.

For information on how to start a career in State Government, write to the Field Recruiting Section, New York State Department of Civil Service, State Campus, Albany, N.Y. 12226. A free copy of the leaflet on "Opportunities for Women in New York State Government" by Mrs. Ersia Poston is available from the New York State Commerce Department Women's Program, whose offices are located at 112 State Street, Albany, N.Y. 12207 and 230 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Doing the Right Thing

Speaking Foreign Language Like Telling Secret to Those Who Don't Understand

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to know if it is proper to speak a foreign language in front of others who do not understand the language.

Jim Tully

Dear Mr. Tully: Speaking a foreign language in front of those who do not understand it is exactly like whispering a secret to someone when others are present. Those who do not know what you are saying feel left out, and are apt to think you are making remarks about them. In short, it is not proper. Occasionally it is necessary to explain a remark in one's native tongue to one who does not speak English well. In that case, you should turn to others and briefly explain what you are saying.

Disposing of Rings From First Marriage

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it correct for a gentleman marrying for the second time to give his fiancée a diamond engagement ring? If so, and she has been married before, what does she do with her first wedding and engagement rings?—Phyllis

Phyllis: A gentleman certainly may give his fiancée a diamond ring, whether she be first, second, or third. At the time he gives it to her, she removes her first engagement ring. She removes the wedding ring at the time of her re-marriage. She either keeps them for a son or daughter of her first marriage, or has the engagement ring reset into a different piece of jewelry. The wedding ring she may put away or discard according to how she feels about her first husband.

Method of Card Delivery Matter of Choice

Dear Mrs. Post: Should a husband or wife mail a birthday, Christmas, or Valentine card to each other, or should they just be handed to each other with or without a gift?

Ruth B.

Dear Mrs. B: There is no hard-and-fast rule. Some women feel that it is more fun to receive a card in the mail, perhaps reminding them of their courtship days. Others prefer the intimacy and special meaning of a card found on a pillow or at their place at the breakfast table. If a gift is included, it is given in person and the card usually accompanies it.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question we receive each week, we'll send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen, and its answer, will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post in care of this newspaper, and don't forget to include your name and address.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

As a retired plumber who has made most of his living by replacing washers in dripping faucets, I would like to tip off some of your housewives so they can tell their husbands this little secret.

Men usually turn off a water faucet too hard. This only wears out the washer because the metal part squeezes and cuts into it.

Hydrants should be kept from dripping by turning them off gently.

If it drips, a new washer is definitely needed. But there's absolutely no reason to ruin a washer by squeezing it so hard every time that it gets cut.

A service call is very expensive. The plumber's time costs the same whether it's to replace a washer or weld a pipe. Also, there is a minimum service charge.

Retired Plumber

When a serviceman comes to my house, I stand there and watch and see what they do so I might be able to fix it myself next time.

What price preventive maintenance? I've saved lots of $$$ this way.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Have you ever tried to cut pizza with a knife or scissors? I have and usually burn myself or make a mess.

I've found that my dressmaker's tracing wheel does a perfect job. It's stainless steel, won't rust and works perfectly on pizza.

Cuts a nice, smooth line too.

Mrs. Harold Killian

Dear Heloise:

On rainy days when small children have to stay indoors, a temporary playhouse can be made by putting up a card table and draping a sheet over it.

I pin one corner of it up with a safety pin to form a door. The children spend hours playing house and never seem to tire of it.

Ulster County Activities

St. Joseph's CYO basketball players, Kingston, will hold a bake sale after each Mass on Sunday, Feb. 11, at the school on Wall Street and at the Hurley Mission Church.

More than 6000 square and round dancers and callers will move into Pittsfield, Mass., to participate in a two-day square dance convention on April 26-27. It promises to be the largest convention of this nature to be held on the East Coast in 1968 and will rival in scope the National Square Dance Convention held in Philadelphia in 1967. Eastern District Square and Round Dance Association and New England Council of Callers Association will co-sponsor this huge event. Features will include a fashion show, panel discussions, exhibitions, live music, after-parties and plenty of dancing.

The YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue, is offering three classes in modern dance:

Monday from 3:30-4:30, modern techniques; Tuesday from 3:30-4:30, techniques and improvising; Wednesday from 6:30-7:30 p. m., ballet. The classes are for both male and female of all ages and will continue for 10 weeks.

The instructor is Mrs. Judith Stroisch of Woodstock who has a Bachelor of Arts degree from Bard College and has studied with Alexi Kosloff, Blanche Moak, Janet Reed and Arlene Laub. She has studied at the Catherine Dunham school, Carnegie Hall School, with Alan Howard at the Pacific Ballet and studied drama at the Dramatic Studio in Chicago.

The course will approach dance as a technique, the basic movement a particular form, and as an inside experience to enable the student to create himself into an integrated unity, to see things, that is, relationship of people and things moving different ways, an awareness of his own views and feelings, which the student will learn to put into dance form. Finally, the students will be able to teach themselves and work creatively with others who learn and teach. Call the YWCA to register. The YWCA is a member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest.

At the January 23 meeting of the board of directors of Sisterhood Congregation Agudas Achim, matters were discussed concerning a proposed theatre party, a cafeteria supper, dinner dance and barbecue. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Benjamin Suskind and was conducted by Mrs. Robert Selinger.

Plans were made for the next Sisterhood meeting scheduled for Wednesday, Feb. 14. Guest speakers will be David Popick, newly elected president of Congregation Agudas Achim, and Jack Shienovoid, secretary.

Orders for Mah Jong cards may be given to Mrs. Herman Schneider, chairman, Mrs. Herman Kreppel was appointed flower fund chairman.

Those who attended were the Mmes. H. Z. Rappaport, Robert Selinger, Irving Meyer, Ira Traut, Benjamin Suskind, Mike Weiner and Miss Gertrude Reher. Guests were Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport and Miss Celia Farber.

The Doctor Says

CHECK SEAT CAREFULLY FOR CHILD'S CAR SAFETY

By Wayne G. Brandstadt M. D.

Since more children die in auto accidents than from contagious diseases and all other accidents combined, the Physicians for Automotive Safety looked into the causative factors. Their surprising conclusion was that some of the special seats now marketed for use in autos by infants and children are worse than nothing. Less than one infant in 1,000 receives effective crash protection while riding in an auto.

The observers found that most car seats for tots are flimsy and are not securely fastened to the car. Not only do they allow the child to be thrown about in the car in a crash but the seats themselves may be hurled against other occupants of the car. In the false belief that the car seat will protect the infant, many parents attach these devices to the front seat of the auto although the child would be safer (but not safe enough) if it were attached to the rear seat.

Seats that are anchored securely to the car and hold the infant firmly in the seat are now available. Following a crash, the child can be freed in two seconds. If you want to insure the safety of your child, make sure the device you purchase will do the job expected of it.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

I hope none of your readers need this hint, but here's how I solved the problem when confronted with it.

A mouse ate a hole in the screen lint filter of my clothes dryer.

I took two small squares of nylon net and sewed them by hand, one on the front and one on the back of the filter.

Saved having to buy a new filter.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

The other day I resolved to wash my hair and set it. Wash I did, but when I went to set it, I discovered that my teenager had absconded with my rat-tailed comb and every other comb in the house.

I stormed and fumed and hunted to no avail — the deers were safely in school and beyond my reach.

I ended up using the dog comb (washed) and an old orange stick.

What price mothers? Or should we say children?

Dear Heloise:

Those heavy aluminum foil bags that come as inner liners in many cereal boxes can be easily removed when the cereal has been eaten.

They make dandy storage bags for refrigerator freezer items such as ice cream or meat.

The Doctor Says

CHECK SEAT CAREFULLY FOR CHILD'S CAR SAFETY

By Wayne G. Brandstadt M. D.

Since more children die in auto accidents than from contagious diseases and all other accidents combined, the Physicians for Automotive Safety looked into the causative factors. Their surprising conclusion was that some of the special seats now marketed for use in autos by infants and children are worse than nothing.

Less than one infant in 1,000 receives effective crash protection while riding in an auto.

The observers found that most car seats for tots are flimsy and are not securely fastened to the car. Not only do they allow the child to be thrown about in the car in a crash but the seats themselves may be hurled against other occupants of the car. In the false belief that the car seat will protect the infant, many parents attach these devices to the front seat of the auto although the child would be safer (but not safe enough) if it were attached to the rear seat.

Seats that are anchored securely to the car and hold the infant firmly in the seat are now available. Following a crash, the child can be freed in two seconds. If you want to insure the safety of your child, make sure the device you purchase is anchored.

Monticello Poses Threat to KHS' 5-0 DUSO Record

By MIKE HELFNER
Freeman Sports Staff

Coach Jack Gilligan's Kingston High School basketball team puts its perfect 5-0 DUSO League record on the line tomorrow night, when the Maroons travel to Monticello to face the rapidly improving Monties.

Kingston holds a game and a half bulge over second-place Newburgh, which is idle, while the Monties sit in third, two notches off the pace at 4-3.

In another DUSO game, Port Jervis, eliminated from the race, is at Middletown. The Maroons, coasting along with a 10-1 mark overall, knocked off the Monties at Kate Walton Field House Jan. 9, 79-68, coasting after the opening period.

It might be a little different tomorrow, as the Monties have been especially tough at home, suffering only a shocking overtime defeat to Middletown.

The Monties have won their last two, avenging a road loss to Newburgh 10 days ago and rolling over Liberty on the road Friday night.

Gilligan is expected to stay with his four top men, A. J. (Andy) Murphy, Ray Lindhorst and his sons, Ken and Bruce. The fifth man has never been named, and Gilligan has been using a trio of performers, Ted Byman, Werner Kolln and Ted Wood.

Change in Defense

Which of the three will start, Gilligan won't say, but if it's Wood, Lindhorst will have a different man on defense than the first contest.

Lindhorst guarded the Monties' high-scoring Willie Bradley previously, while Bradley's scoring mate, Stan Hepburn, was guarded by Ken Gilligan.

Arlington, which used top scorer Scott McCandlish as a decoy in knocking off Beacon Friday night, is expected to let the 6-foot-9 center shoot at will, since this game is expected to be a laugh for the hgy-flying Admirals.

The easiest-looking game on paper should be the Beacon-Farley clash. The Bulldogs carry a 12.6 league edge over opponents, while Farley is 29.4 point-per-game back of its opponents.

In non-league action, Marlboro, the Ulster County Athletic League's third-place team, hosts Valley Central, who can (but not expected to) tie powerful Highland Falls for the title in the Orange County League's Section A.

27-Average Player

Valley Central is paced by the scoring of Chris Hoornbeck, averaging 27 a game in league play.

Red Hook, which holds early season wins over almost every UCAL team, travels to Highland for a first-encounter with the Highlanders, who registered their initial victory Friday night.

The final non-league battle finds Ellenville, 94-50 winner over Fallsburgh Friday, at Onteora. The Indians dropped a road game to Fallsburgh a month ago, but to make it rougher, OCS will have to face the Ellies sensational Nate Shorter, 6-foot-3, something the Comets don't have.

Perhaps playing at home will give the Indians the additional advantage they need for a win. A victory would boost the Indians' spirit for the UCAL pennant drive against idle Rondout Valley. Both are deadlocked at 8-2.

Should Wood start, Lindhorst would get Hepburn and Wood take Bradley, freeing Gilligan from tough defensive chores.

The Maroons walked away with the first game simply by pressing the Monties. Bradley and Hepburn failed to help out the guards, committing error after error, that gave Kingston numerous scoring opportunities.

Monticello mentor, Bob (Bucky) Roche, uses a two-men up front, three-men back offense, which is designed to keep the fleet, mobile guards running against the press.

Fallen First Time

That failed against KHS the first time, but Roche has indicated he will stay with that formula, although he might replace either Elmore Coleman or Joe Walker with Reggie Raynor, a ball-control player. Raynor has not seen much action in the Monties score-minded attack.

The Dutchess County League should be a chalk players dream with the four top teams meeting the four lowest teams.

The matchups pit fifth-place Wappingers (5-5) against Poughkeepsie (7-2) and tied for second; Arlington, the league leader at 9-1 goes against homestanding Saugerties, seventh with a reverse chart; fourth-place Lourdes meets host Roosevelt (sixth) and Beacon, tied for second, is at home against winless Cardinal Farley.

Knicks Finally Stop Celtics in Boston

By DAVE O'HARA

Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The New York Knickerbockers had faith once again today in the old saying: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

The Knicks staged a dramatic comeback behind rookie Walt Frazier and Bill Bradley and veteran Walt Bellamy to beat Boston 110-108 for their first victory over the Celtics in a regular season game at Boston since Dec. 22, 1962.

"We won here in the playoffs last year, but you still might call it a long drought," New York Coach Red Holzman said.

The Knicks had lost 25 straight National Basketball Association games in Boston except for the playoff triumph last season.

In other NBA games Sunday, Philadelphia drubbed San Francisco 141-117 to open up a 3½-game lead over second-place Boston in the Eastern Division. St. Louis edged Cincinnati 106-100, Detroit nipped Baltimore 117-115 and Los Angeles downed Seattle 137-131.

Anaheim whipped Houston 132-120, New Jersey nipped Kentucky 111-109, Minnesota trounced Pittsburgh 114-95, and New Orleans edged Denver 105-100 in the American Basketball Association.

Trailing by 20 points in the first half, the Knicks went to work and gradually cut the deficit on the hot shooting of Frazier and Bellamy. They pulled to within three points, then fell eight behind at the outset of the fourth quarter.

Bradley came off the bench to contribute three key baskets and a free throw as New York stormed from behind and then outdueled the Celtics down the stretch.

Philadelphia broke open a close game in the third period and coasted home behind the scoring of Hal Greer, 29, and Chet Walker, 27. Wilt Chamberlain added 19 points to the Philadelphia attack and handed out 16 assists. Rudy LaRusso led San Francisco with 25.

Don Ohl sparked the St. Louis victory, scoring 12 of his 16 points in the fourth quarter. Len Wilkens led St. Louis with 20. Jerry Lucas scored 23 for Cincinnati, which played the final quarter without Oscar Robertson, who suffered a muscle pull. The Big O also scored 23.

Dave Bing put Detroit ahead 114-113 on a basket with 35 seconds left, and then Happy Hairston clinched it with two foul shots. Bing finished with 31 points and Hairston 27. Earl Monroe paced Baltimore with 25.

Jerry West poured in 43 points and Archie Clark 35 to top Los Angeles, which played without Elgin Baylor who has an injured foot. Tom Meschery and Walt Hazzard scored 28 and 26, respectively, for Seattle.

Boston edged New York 112-108, Philadelphia downed Baltimore 133-121, St. Louis beat Cincinnati 125-111 and Los Angeles outlasted San Diego 133-122 Saturday.

Arizona Halts Lobos Streak

By RON RAPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

In the course of Arizona's basketball game with New Mexico Saturday night, Dick Root suffered a cut jaw, a chipped tooth and a mild concussion.

New Mexico, obviously was not prepared to give up its 17-game win streak and fourth-place Associated Press ranking without a battle.

But when the game was over, so was the Lobos' perfect record: Arizona won 69-66.

New Mexico's Greg Howard was thrown out of the game for unsportsmanlike conduct after inflicting Root's injuries with 15 minutes left in the game. Mike Kordik scored 24 points for Arizona, beating Maryland 75-67 with Larry Miller and Charlie Scott each scoring 17 points.

And in another basketball game that turned into a boxing match at times, Marquette beat DePaul 58-53.

Punches Thrown

Bob Zoretich of DePaul and Pat Smith of Marquette were both tossed out of the game for throwing punches after DePaul's Ken Warzynski had received an elbow in the eye.

Al McGuire, the Marquette coach, protested that DePaul Coach Ray Meyer had set up the fight to get Smith thrown out of the game. Meyer replied with a few choice comments of his own.

"I'm so burned up," he said, "I would like to discontinue this series."

Second-ranked UCLA easily beat hometown rival Southern California 101-67 behind Lew Alcindor's 32 points and Mike Warren's 18. Third-rated North Carolina won its 12th straight game, beating Maryland 75-67 with Larry Miller and Charlie Scott each scoring 17 points.

Tennessee, No. 6, won its 33rd straight home-court victory, stomping Mississippi 88-46. Vanderbilt, No. 7, was surprised by Florida 91-85. Neal Walk scored 35 points for Florida, which won its first game ever on the Vanderbilt court.

Columbia Rallies

Eighth-ranked Columbia beat its major Ivy League competitor, downing Princeton 69-60 as Jim McMillan scored 32 points, 24 in the second half.

From the people who brought you no radiator. No carburetor.

Inside the left rear fender of every 1968 Volkswagen Fastback and Squareback, there's a small metal box full of transistors, wires and stuff like that.

This box is an electronic computer.

What it computes is exactly how much gas the four fuel injectors ought to shoot into the manifold.

What the whole business does is replace the carburetor.

So you can forget whatever carburetor problems you've had in the past—dirt, flooding, jamming, you name it—because there's no more carburetor. What you get instead is quick, sure starts and efficient engine operation under all conditions.

That's because electronic fuel injection is a whole new way to make car engines run.

The closest thing to it is a $325 optional extra on a car that costs almost twice as much. But electronic fuel injection is standard equipment on Fastbacks at $2179*, and on Squarebacks at $2349*.

All of which should make you feel the same way about the carburetor as you do about putting antifreeze and water into the radiator. You can learn to live without it.

BOSTON (AP) — The New York Knickerbockers had faith once again today in the old saying: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

The Knicks staged a dramatic comeback behind rookie Walt Frazier and Bill Bradley and veteran Walt Bellamy to beat Boston 110-108 for their first victory over the Celtics in a regular season game at Boston since Dec. 22, 1962.

Bradley came off the bench to contribute three key baskets and a free throw as New York stormed from behind and then outdueled the Celtics down the stretch.

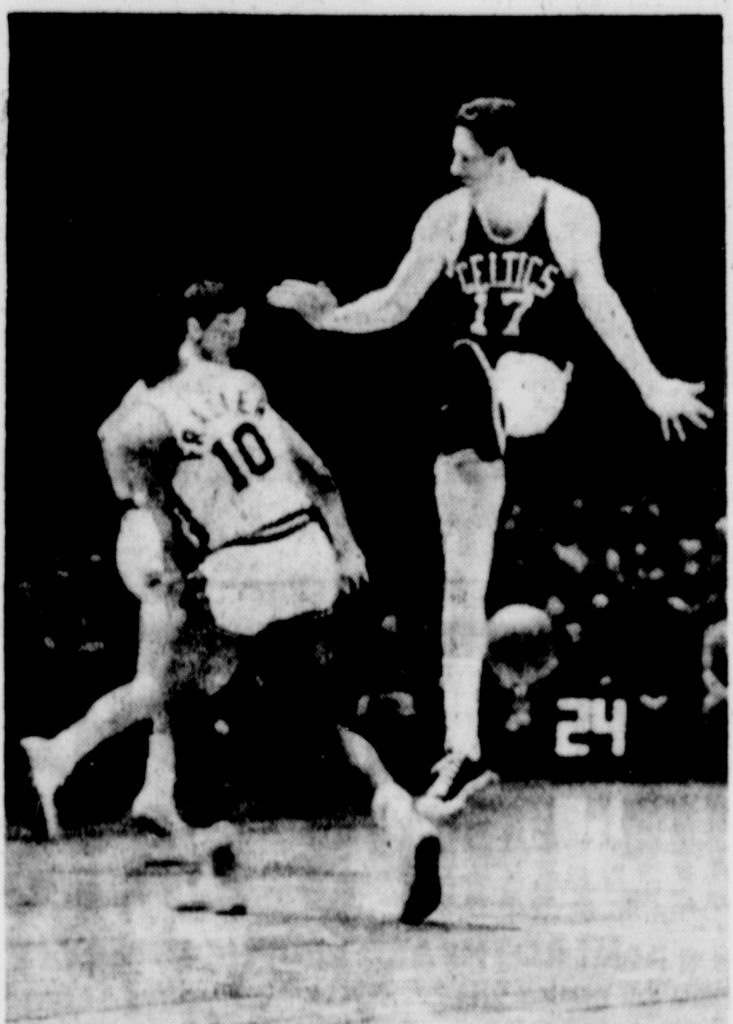

Philadelphia broke open a close game in the third period and coasted home behind the scoring of Hal Greener, 29, and Chet Walker, 27. Walt Chamberlain added 19 points to the Philadelphia attack and handed out 16 assists. Rudy LaRusso led San Francisco with 25.

Don Ohl sparked the St. Louis victory, scoring 12 of his 16 points in the fourth quarter. Len Wilkens led St. Louis with 20. Jerry Lucas scored 23 for Cincinnati, which played the final quarter without Oscar Robertson, who suffered a muscle pull. The Big O also scored 23.

Dave Bing put Detroit ahead 114-113 on a basket with 35 seconds left, and then Happy Hairston clinched it with two foul shots. Bing finished with 31 points and Hairston 27. Earl Monroe paced Baltimore with 35.

Jerry West poured in 43 points and Archie Clark 35 to top Los Angeles, which played without Elgin Baylor who has an injured foot. Tom Meschery and Walt Hazzard scored 28 and 26, respectively, for Seattle.

Boston edged New York 112-106. Philadelphia downed Baltimore 133-121. St. Louis beat Cincinnati 125-111 and Los Angeles outlasted San Diego 133-122 Saturday.

Arizona Halts Lobos Streak

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

In the course of Arizona's basketball game with New Mexico Saturday night, Dick Root suffered a cut jaw, a chipped tooth and a mild concussion.

New Mexico, obviously was not prepared to give up its 17-game win streak and fourth-place Associated Press ranking without a battle.

But when the game was over, so was the Lobos' perfect record: Arizona won 69-68.

New Mexico's Greg Howard was thrown out of the game for unsportsmanlike conduct after inflicting Root's injuries with 15 minutes left in the game. Mike Kordik scored 24 points for Arizona and picked off nine rebounds.

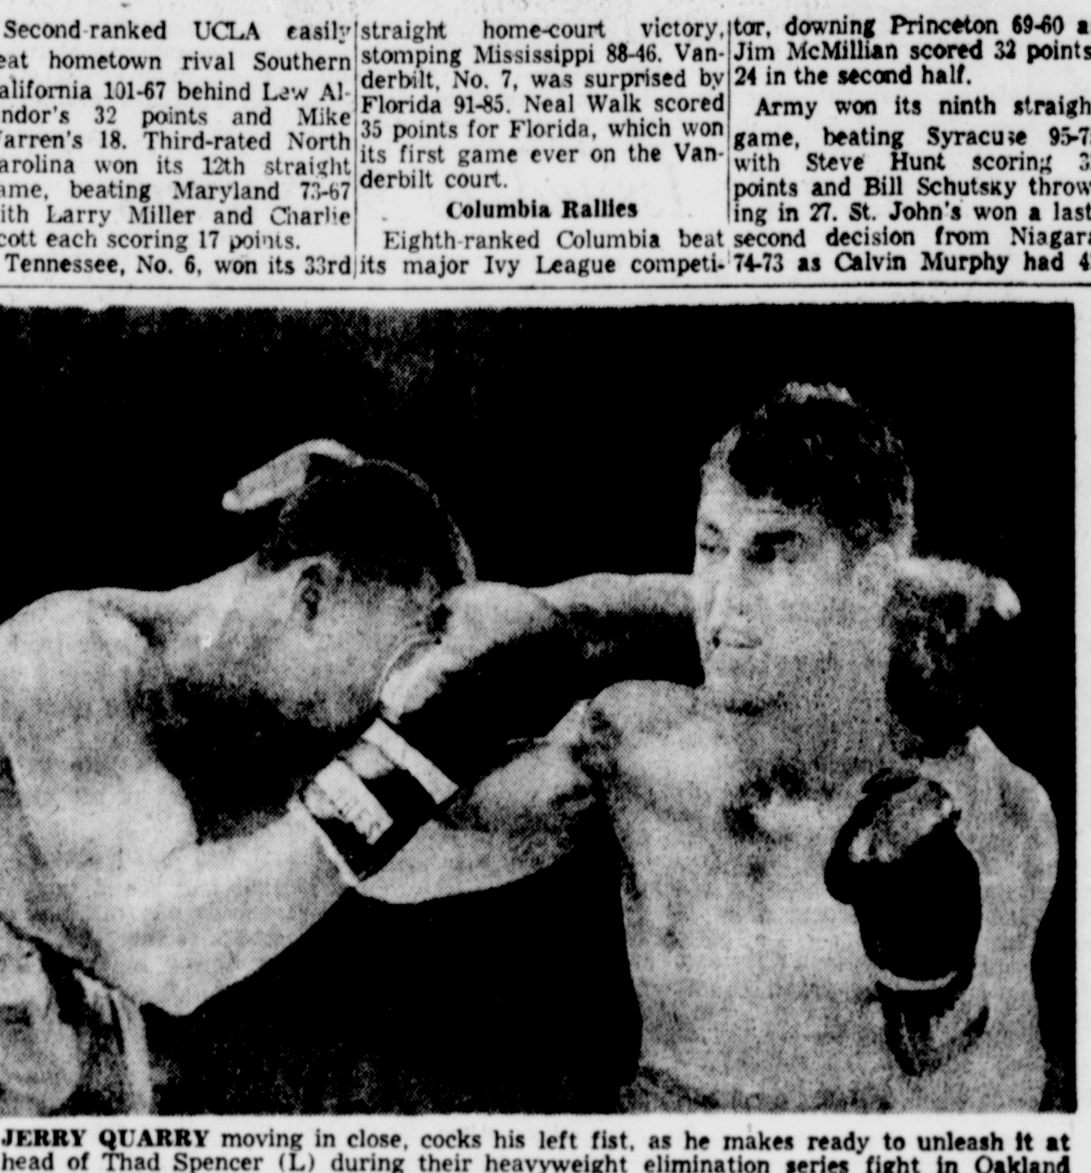

And in another basketball game that turned into a boxing match at times, Marquette beat DePaul 58-53.

Punches Thrown

Bob Zoretich of DePaul and Pat Smith of Marquette were both tossed out of the game for throwing punches after DePaul's Ken Warzynski had received an elbow in the eye.

Al McGuire, the Marquette coach, protested that DePaul Coach Ray Meyer had set up the fight to get Smith thrown out of the game. Meyer replied with a few choice comments of his own.

"I'm so burned up," he said, "I would like to discontinue this series."

From the people who brought you no radiator. No carburetor.

Inside the left rear fender of every 1968 Volkswagen Fastback and Squareback, there's a small metal box full of transistors, wires and stuff like that.

This box is an electronic computer.

What it computes is exactly how much gas the four fuel injectors ought to shoot into the manifold. What the whole business does is replace the carburetor.

So you can forget whatever carburetor problems you've had in the past—dirt, flooding, jamming, you name it—because there's no more carburetor. What you get instead is quick, sure starts and efficient engine operation under all conditions.

That's because electronic fuel injection is a whole new way to make car engines run.

The closest thing to it is a $325 optional extra on a car that costs almost twice as much. But electronic fuel injection is standard equipment on Fastbacks at $2179*, and on Squarebacks at $2349*.

All of which should make you feel the same way about the carburetor as you do about putting antifreeze and water into the radiator. You can learn to live without it.

UCCC Fogged in by Referees and Weather

By CHRIS GEHMAN
Freeman Sports Staff

It looked as though the fates and everyone else in the universe, including the weather and the referees were conspiring against the Ulster County Community College on their recent road trip to Pittsburgh.

What could have been a pleasant two-day jaunt to western Pennsylvania turned into hours of boredom and frustration for all concerned.

The first leg of the journey was pleasant enough, albeit a little cramped, due to the fact that the entire UCCC 13-man squad and I traveled to the Newark airport in just two cars. An air of nervousness hung over the plane, as most of the boys prepared to make their first airplane flight.

Only Coach Mike Perry, Bill DuBois, Al Overby and I had flown previously. Nervousness mounted as flight time approached, but after we were air borne all agreed that it was not so bad after all.

"It's still a long way to the ground," commented scoring ace Joe Uhl.

Upon arrival at the Greater

Pittsburgh Airport, Dick Lesnick, the Robert Morris athletic director, escorted us to our rooms at the Holiday Inn, 10 miles outside Pittsburgh.

The story of the game has already been told. Home cooking by the referee did the job on our Senators. It's no wonder the Robert Morris Colonials are the 5th ranked defensive team in the country. The officials let them grab, claw, hit, gouge and everything else in the book, practically at will.

Uhl's arms were black and blue from the beating he took in the Morris game. Frank Roselli was hit so hard his mouth bled.

Robert Morris, of course, places a heavy emphasis on their athletic program, and they like to win. A high up at Morris said he thought the teams ought to stand on their own merit, instead of relying on the homeside refereeing, but Lesnick was the athletic director.

An unofficial source indicated that Robert Morris spends upwards of $50,000 yearly on their basketball squad alone, and its not unbelievable at all, considering that all 11 players are on full scholarships and head coach Gus Krop has two assistants in Mike Acquaro and Spike Hennessy. The Colonials also make a lot of road trips.

It Was Not Home

At the Holiday Inn after the game, it became apparent that our accommodations (arranged by Lesnick himself) left something to be desired in that they were 20 miles from nowhere. It is true that they were convenient to Robert Morris Junior College, but that was about all. The squad began to chafe at the bit when they had to sit around all the next morning and afternoon.

We were rescued by Neil Cohen, the congenial AD at Allegheny Community College. Cohen also coaches track and cross country. He let us know that Ulster wasn't the first team to complain about the refereeing at Morris.

Ulster's Senators arrived at Allegheny in the middle of the afternoon, a little too late to do much in the way of sightseeing, but practically everyone headed for one of Pittsburgh's many shopping centers. It seems that Pittsburgh favors indoor shopping centers, with all of the tores in one huge building, opening into a center mall that is as wide as a city street. The center was a new concept in shopping to all the Senators.

Only 200 people were on hand at Carrick high school to watch Ulster show its true colors as the Senators downed Allegheny with no trouble, 116-71. Cohen pinned the poor attendance on the facts that Allegheny was in the middle of a three week semester break and also that it is the Pittsburgh school's first year in basketball competition.

Well, it turned out when we got there, after flying through soupy fog most of the way, that Newark was closed. After holding over Newark for 20 minutes for a break in the weather, it was announced that we would head back to Pittsburgh.

When the stewardess added that we would be stopping in someplace called Wilkes-Barre-Scranton because we were low on fuel, that all important factor in any airplane's flight plan, a general hush descended on the team. It had suddenly become quite clear to everyone that insurance was no good at all to the fellow who buys it. Anyway, we made it to Wilkes-Barre-Scranton safely enough and there we were given the choice of staying in some hotel there, at Allegheny's expense, or flying on to Pittsburgh that night. A unanimous decision to stay safely on the ground in Wilkes-Barre was reached in about 10 seconds, which was as long as it took everyone to put in their two cents worth.

Wild Taxicab Ride

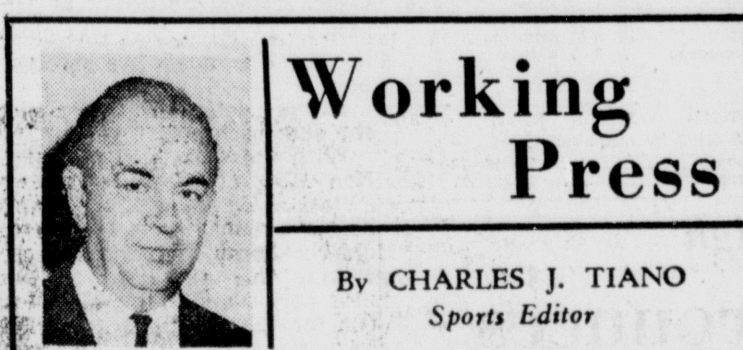

After a wild taxicab ride from the airport to the Sterling hotel in Wilkes-Barre (it seems that Wilkes-Barre cabbies don't believe in red lights after midnight).

Friday morning's flight to Newark was uneventful after a little initial turbulence. A quick trip back to Kingston (one of the cars made it back to the Municipal auditorium with the fuel gauge hugging empty for the last 20 miles) and the trip was over.

It was over for everyone except this reporter, who arrived to find that the Kingston City Police had removed his car from its resting place. It seems he had overlooked several no parking signs.

PETE STOLL, undefeated Kingston High school heavy-weight wrestler who has a 4-0 record, strikes a pose for cameraman Bob Haines. Stoll's biggest win to date was 12-5 decision over Matt Resnick of Liberty, who was 9-0 before Stoll stopped him. (Staff photo by Haines).

Elsewhere in today's sports section you will find an amusing account of UCCC's recent two-day basketball safari to Pittsburgh written by our fledgling sportswriter—Chris Gehman.

The first "big" assignment for the journalistic rookie developed into something less than the wine and roses he anticipated.

What happened to Ulster's Senators at the hands of the big bad referees and Robert Morris Junior College has been faithfully recorded by brother Gehman.

He learned one thing for sure, that no matter what the rule book stipulates basketball referees are a notorious lot when it comes to personal interpretation of the black and white code. So a block in Kansas City could be a charge in Pittsburgh. And no athletes are more at the mercy of officiating "homers" than basketball players.

YOUNG GEHMAN'S maiden trip outside the confines of the county recalled for us a similar "big first." More glamorous names were involved and we were spared the indignities of bad referees, fog bound airports and the ordeal of spending an enforced hiatus in Wilkes Barre, Pa.

It was just a short trip from the corner of John and Green Street to Greenkill Park, a Kingston resort so beautiful that the late mystic Father Devine proclaimed it one of his "heavens."

Max Schmeling, the German heavyweight challenger, selected Greenkill Park as the site for his training camp in preparation for his bout with Jack Sharkey.

Kingston became the boxing center of the country while Der Moxie, a swarthy, beetle browed moneysyllabic introvert, held daily court. Big name boxers paid the usual "promotion" visit and the giants of the sportswriting fraternity were daily camp guests.

It was a tremendous thrill for a young sportswriter to be introduced to the legendary Gentleman Jim Corbett and columnists like Paul Gallico of the New York Daily News and Grantland Rice, dean of American sportswriters pounding out his lyrical sports prose with the inevitable hunt and peck system.

They don't make young sportswriter like that anymore. They're all touch typists these days.

GREENKILL PARK never was the easiest place in the world to find and before long Henry McLemore, an acrobatic sports columnist-humorist of the United Press delineated the collective wrath of the New York boxing writer fraternity with one withering blast.

"Max Schmeling, the German contender, has pitched his training camp at Kingston, N. Y., a far-trading post up the Hudson River," wrote the irate Mr. McLemore in one of the glittering leads than moved across the country on the UP wire.

We were then well into the 20th century, mind you, and McLemore's cavalier treatment of our historic city inspired high dudgeon at city hall and the local Chamber of Commerce office. There were the usual demands for retractions and apologies but Mr. McLemore remained adamant.

All concerned survived the episode. McLemore returned to the dingy UP headquarters in New York. Schmeling broke camp and traveled to Yankee Stadium where he captured the world's heavyweight championship yelling foul at Sharkey, the Lithuanian from Boston.

Kingston went back to sleep to imitate Rip Van Winkle until IBM happened along.

THAT FIRST BIG "scoop" has remained a lifetime conversation piece. Schmeling was not an easy man to interview. He answered most questions with moneysyllables. The only time he warmed up was in response to a question about the local countryside.

Did he like this part of the country? Yes, he did. It reminded him so much of his beloved Germany. But that, of course, was before Adolph Hitler came along.

Chris Gehman is as unlikely to forget that first big trip to Pittsburgh as we are the Schmeling-Gorbett-Gallico-McLemore incident. Those are the things that make this business worthwhile.

They don't make young sportswriter like that anymore. They're all tough typists these days.

GREENKILL PARK never was the easiest place in the world to find and before long Henry McLemore, an acrobatic sports columnist-humorist of the United Press delineated the collective wrath of the New York boxing writer fraternity with one withering blast.

"Max Schmeling, the German contender, has pitched his training camp at Kingston, N. Y., a fur-trading post up the Hudson River," wrote the irate Mr. McLemore in one of the glittering leads than moved across the country on the UP wire.

We were then well into the 20th century, mind you, and McLemore's cavalier treatment of our historic city inspired high dudgeon at city hall and the local Chamber of Commerce office. There were the usual demands for retractions and apologies but Mr. McLemore remained adamant.

All concerned survived the episode. McLemore returned to the dingy UP headquarters in New York. Schmeling broke camp and traveled to Yankee Stadium where he captured the world's heavyweight championship yelling foul at Sharkey, the Lithuanian from Boston.

Kingston went back to sleep to imitate Rip Van Winkle until IBM happened along.

THAT FIRST BIG "SCOOP" has remained a lifetime conversation piece. Schmeling was not an easy man to interview. He answered most questions with moneysyllables. The only time he warmed up was in response to a question about the local countryside.

Did he like this part of the country? Yes, he did. It reminded him so much of his beloved Germany. But that, of course, was before Adolph Hitler came along.

Chris Gehman is as unlikely to forget that first big trip to Pittsburgh as we are the Schmeling-Gorbett-Gallico-McLemore incident. Those are the things that make this business worthwhile.

UCCC Fogged in by Referees and Weather

By CHRIS GEHMAN
Freeman Sports Staff

It looked as though the fates and everyone else in the universe, including the weather and the referees were conspiring against the Ulster County Community College on their recent road trip to Pittsburgh.

What could have been a pleasant two-day jaunt to western Pennsylvania turned into hours of boredom and frustration for all concerned.

The first leg of the journey was pleasant enough, albeit a little cramped, due to the fact that the entire UCCC 13-man squad and I traveled to the Newark airport in just two cars. An air of nervousness hung over the plane, as most of the boys prepared to make their first airplane flight.

Only Coach Mike Perry, Bill DuBois, Al Overby and I had flown previously. Nervousness mounted as flight time approached, but after we were air borne all agreed that it was not so bad after all.

"It's still a long way to the ground," commented scoring ace Joe Uhl.

Upon arrival at the Greater

Pittsburgh Airport, Dick Lesnick, the Robert Morris athletic director, escorted us to our rooms at the Holiday Inn, 10 miles outside Pittsburgh.

The story of the game has already been told. Home cooking by the referee did the job on our Senators. It's no wonder the Robert Morris Colonials are the 5th ranked defensive team in the country. The officials let them grab, claw, hit, gouge and everything else in the book, practically at will.

Uhl's arms were black and blue from the beating he took in the Morris game. Frank Roselli was hit so hard his mouth bled.

Robert Morris, of course, places a heavy emphasis on their athletic program, and they like to win. A high up at Morris said he thought the teams ought to stand on their own merit, instead of relying on the homeside refereeing, but Lesnick was the athletic director.

An unofficial source indicated that Robert Morris spends upwards of $50,000 yearly on their basketball squad alone, and its not unbelievable at all, considering that all 11 players are on full scholarships and head coach Gus Krop had two assistants in Mike Acquaro and Spike Hennessy. The Colonials also make a lot of road trips.

It Was Not Home

At the Holiday Inn after the game, it became apparent that our accommodations (arranged by Lesnick himself) left something to be desired in that they were 20 miles from nowhere. It is true that they were convenient to Robert Morris Junior College, but that was about all. The squad began to chafe at the bit when they had to sit around all the next morning and afternoon.

We were rescued by Neil Cohen, the congenial AD at Allegheny Community College. Cohen also coaches track and cross country. He let us know that Ulster wasn't the first team to complain about the refing at Morris.

Ulster's Senators arrived at Allegheny in the middle of the afternoon, a little too late to do much in the way of sightseeing, but practically everyone headed for one of Pittsburgh's many shopping centers. It seems that Pittsburgh favors indoor shopping centers, with all of the towers in one huge building, opening into a center mall that is as wide as a city street. The center was a new concept in shopping to all the Senators.

Only 200 people were on hand at Carrick high school to watch Ulster show its true colors as the Senators downed Allegheny with no trouble, 116-71. Cohen pinned the poor attendance on the facts that Allegheny was in the middle of a three week semester break and also that it is the Pittsburgh school's first year in basketball competition.

Well, it turned out when we got there, after flying through soupy fog most of the way, that Newark was closed. After holding over Newark for 20 minutes for a break in the weather, it was announced that we would head back to Pittsburgh.

When the stewardess added that we would be stopping in someplace called Wilkes-Barre-Scranton because we were low on fuel, that all important factor in any airplane's flight plan, a general hush descended on the team. It had suddenly become quite clear to everyone that insurance was no good at all to the fellow who buys it.

Anyway, we made it to Wilkes-Barre-Scranton safely enough and there we were given the choice of staying in some hotel there, at Allegheny's expense, or flying on to Pittsburgh that night. A unanimous decision to stay safely on the ground in Wilkes-Barre was reached in about 10 seconds, which was as long as it took everyone to put in their two cents worth.

Wild Taxicab Ride

After a wild taxicab race from the Airport to the Sterling hotel in Wilkes-Barre (it seems that Wilkes-Barre cabbies don't believe in red lights after midnight).

Friday morning's flight to Newark was uneventful after a little initial turbulence. A quick trip back to Kingston (one of the cars made it back to the Municipal auditorium with the fuel gauge hugging empty for the last 20 miles) and the trip was over.

It was over for everyone except this reporter, who arrived to find that the Kingston City Police had removed his car from its resting place. It seems he had overlooked several no parking signs.

Yeshiva Rally Tops State U. Hawks, 61-54

Don't ever tell New Paltz State basketball coach Doug Sheppard that foul shooting is not important, because his team's lack of it Saturday night cost him a road win over Yeshiva.

Sheppard's Hawks, minus former Monticello ace fy Sands, outshot Yeshiva from the floor, 24-22, but lost because Yeshiva converted 17 of 21 foul shots while his own chargers managed only six of 19.

Led by Pete Kane and Ed Schuster, the Hawks built up a 30-24 halftime lead as Kane hit for 10 points and Schuster eight. Kane finished with 23, Schuster 15.

Schuster, however was in foul trouble, and Sheppard sent him team out at the start of the second half with Schuster sitting on the bench.

RECORD RUNS

The major league baseball record for most runs batted in during one inning is seven set by Ed Cartwright of St. Louis in 1890.

Yeshiva's 6-foot-5 center, Larry Aboff, took advantage of Shuster's absence and immediately went to work controlling the backboards.

Aboff hauled down 12 rebounds in a span of five minutes, giving Yeshiva second and third shots, while denying the Hawks more than one chance to score.

Yeshiva, with Aboff dominating play, quickly knotted the score at 32-all, running off eight to New Paltz's two, all in the space of 2:15.

It was all over for the Hawks, even though Sheppard hurried Shuster back in. Yeshiva and New Paltz swapped baskets, and the seven-point lead Yeshiva garnered when the Hawks were Shuster-less, held up.

Army Rips Orange '5

Bill Schutsky, Army forward, fired in 27-points and held his man, former Scholastic All-American Vaughn Harpur, to only two points Saturday, leading the Cadets to their eighth straight win, 95-75, over Syracuse.

Schutsky, the Cadet scoring leader, relinquished game honors to Steve Hunt, the man he took the season lead away from, as Hunt popped in 32, his career high. Between the two, 20 field goals went in.

Schutsky was the key, however, as he ignited spurts of 10 then 11-points, that gave Army a 47-36 halftime edge.

The win streak is the Cadets longest in 22 years, giving them a 15-3 record, the best in 25 years.

Mum on Candidacy

Abram Supports President

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP) — Morris B. Abram is proclaiming his support for President Johnson while remaining silent on whether he will seek the Democratic nomination for a U.S. Senate seat.

Abram, a New York City lawyer considered a possible challenger to Republican Sen. Jacob Javits, joined Rep. Samuel Stratton of Amsterdam in outlining the party's goals at a meeting of Cayuga County Democrats here Saturday night.

"If I become the Democratic candidate for the Senate," Abram told about 600 persons, "I will firmly support the President of the United States."

Stratton also urged Democrats to back the administration, especially in the wake of "the dramatic events of the past two weeks" in Korea and South Vietnam.

"The candidate who wants our support in the State Committee meeting — and in the primary that follows — must stand solidly behind the President."

Church Council

2-Day Session At Syracuse

SYRACUSE—The 111th annual Assembly of The New York State Council of Churches will convene at the Church Center in Syracuse Thursday and Friday Feb. 8-9. The 125 delegates from 19 denominations and local councils of churches expected to attend will discuss the theme of Tooling Up for the Seventies.

The Right Rev. Walter M. Higley, president of The New York State Council of Churches will lead the sessions. He is the presiding bishop of the Diocese of Central New York of the Episcopal Church.

Mrs. J. Craig Telfer, president of the Church Women United of New York State will conduct the opening worship service. This will be followed by a symposium on the theme in which several denominational leaders will participate reflecting what their own churches are planning for the next decade. Clinton B. Hutto, former controller of Zoro, will chair the symposium.

On the evening of Feb. 8, there will be a recognition service for the new and the retiring chaplains of our mental and penal institutions. The address of the session on "A Contemporary Apostolic Mission" will be given by the Right Rev. Ned Cole, Coadjutor Bishop, Diocese of Central New York, Episcopal Church. Responses to this address will be made by The Reverend Charles J. Fahey of Catholic Charities, Diocese of Syracuse, Rabbi Milton Eliezer of the Hillel Foundation and Professor Robert Root of Syracuse University.

The Assembly is the governing body of The New York State Council of Churches and is composed of representatives of 19 Protestant and Orthodox denominational units in New York State and the Metropolitan, County and Area Councils of Churches. During Friday's sessions, the Assembly will listen to a symposium of the staff of the Council reporting on what their projected plans are for the next decade, and the Assembly will act upon the $211,000 budget for 1968.

For the first time The Assembly will meet in the new Church Center at 3049 East Genesee Street in Syracuse where six denominations have their state or area headquarters along with the state and Syracuse Area Councils of Churches, and The Church Women United.

dent and the administration on Vietnam," Stratton said.

When Abram first indicated last fall that he was considering entering the senatorial race, he told reporters he hoped his views would be acceptable to both Johnson and U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who has not always agreed with the President on Vietnam.

He said then he probably would make his decision in February.

Saigon Feels the Horrors

SAIGON (AP) — Six days of fighting in Saigon have thrust the reality of war upon a city population that for years escaped the horrors that occur every day in the blood-stained countryside of South Vietnam.

This was the face of Saigon Sunday afternoon:

A Vietnamese doctor shrugged his shoulders beside the bed of a dying 3-year-old boy lying sightless, his body a raw scar from stomach to forehead. The flamethrower that had scorched him killed his mother and father.

A nervous policeman raised his rifle at a dozen Vietnamese families that wandered to the park in front of the National Assembly building in the center of the city.

The weary men and women picked up their babies and bundles and struggled up the street toward the central market, homeless nomads in a city paralyzed by the war.

On the northwestern outskirts of the city, bulldozers gouged out a mass grave for Viet Cong soldiers who died in the assault on the capital. They were to be buried anonymously in a cemetery that holds the remains of French Legionnaires and Vietnamese who fought beside them in the 1946-54 war.

Other gravediggers were at work in the National Cemetery, preparing for the elaborate funeral of a Vietnamese colonel beheaded by the Viet Cong. Six other graves were being dug alongside for his wife and five children, machine-gunned beside him.

On the once fashionable boulevards in the center of town—rats scurried in man-high piles of garbage outside American officers' clubs.

A Vietnamese housewife hurried through police checkpoints during the brief lifting of the curfew, seeking food to replenish her larder. Food is available only on the black market and at three times normal prices.

Wounded civilians lie at least two in a bed at all hospitals. At

Two Upstaters Viet Victims

Two more servicemen from upstate New York have been killed in combat in South Vietnam.

Army 2nd Lt. Harry Mosher, 24, of Northville, in the southern Adirondacks, was killed Thursday in a Viet Cong attack on a village near Saigon, his family learned Sunday.

Mosher was a graduate of Hartwick College at Oneonta and played on the school's varsity basketball team.

He went into the Army after his graduation in 1965.

Mosher was the son of Mrs. Gordon Mosher.

Army Spec. 4 Peter M. Butler, 24, of Glens Falls, died Sunday in a hospital in South Vietnam of wounds suffered Jan. 31.

Butler enlisted in 1964 and was sent to Vietnam last October.

He leaves his widow, Carol, and his foster-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Culligan, also of Glens Falls.

APOLGIZED — That's what the North Koreans are claiming about Lt. Stephen R. Harris, USN, one of six officers among the 83 crew members captured aboard the USS Pueblo off North Korea last week. In a broadcast monitored several nights ago, the North Korean radio claimed the voice heard was that of Harris making an apology. His mother said she is uncertain it was the voice of her son. ## Doris Day Makes Move, Takes Leap Into TV

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The next film star to make the leap into television is sunny Doris Day, queen of the pseudo-sex comedies.

For a decade Miss Day has starred in handsomely produced films in which she was the proposed victim of the bad intentions of such screen lovers as Cary Grant, Rock Hudson, James Garner, Rod Taylor and Richard Harris. She is currently making another, "With Six You Get Egg Roll," with Brian Keith as the predator.

The film is the first to be made in Hollywood by the new feature film division of the Columbia Broadcasting System. Miss Day is also contracted to CBS for a television series, but there is no connection between the two deals, according to Gordon Stulberg, the man in charge of the CBS features.

"The two contracts are entirely separate," assured the actress. "But I really don't know much about them. Marty takes care of all that." She referred to her husband, Marty Melcher, who goes along on all her film assignments as co-producer. On the current movie he is full producer.

Miss Day was somewhat vague about her television plans.

"I don't really know when the show will go on the air," she said. "They're working on a format now, and I suppose I'll have some children in it."

"I do know what the work schedule will be, and it suits me fine. I'll rehearse a day, then shoot for three days. Then I'll have three days off. I'm not worried about the hard work in television. I enjoy working, and those three days off will be heavenly. On this picture I will have a total of one day without working."

The plot of "With Six You Get Egg Roll" might cause some alarm among Doris Day fans. She and Keith play partnerless parents who contemplate a merger of their families. But before they agree to a wedding, they go away for a weekend together. This is a Doris Day picture.

"Everything goes wrong," she explained. "They go out on a picnic and it rains. It rains the whole weekend."

But surely they spend some time together indoors.

"Yes, but that takes place behind locked doors," she added firmly. "What they do is their own business, and nobody else's. You're never going to see them in bed together, if that's what you mean."

See on All Sides

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Most motorists take the time to scrape ice and snow from the windshields of their cars during the winter, but engineers at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. note that far too many motorists forget about the other windows of the auto.

The extra minute required to clean all the glass areas can prevent an accident.

See on All Sides

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Most motorists take the time to scrape ice and snow from the windshields of their cars during the winter, but engineers at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. note that far too many motorists forget about the other windows of the auto.

The extra minute required to clean all the glass areas can prevent an accident.

Dear Abby

Must Heed His Preachings

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you for advice, but I need help and I can't go to my friends. Besides, I need help, not pity.

My husband is a minister, about middle-age and average looking. About a year ago he met an attractive young woman while calling on the sick in a hospital. They developed quite a friendship because after she went home he continued to visit her at home. (She is not even a member of his church.) I told him that I didn't like the looks of it, which only made matters worse. He became very angry with me and insisted he was doing nothing wrong, but I notice he visits her only when her husband is at work.

People are beginning to talk, Abby, and I am worried. What should I do?

NOWHERE TO TURN

DEAR NOWHERE: Pastors have been relieved of their duties for this kind of thing, which your husband surely knows. Even if he is doing nothing "wrong," remind him to "abstain from all appearances of evil." (New Testament, 1 Thessalonians, 5:22) in case he wishes to practice what he preaches.

DEAR ABBY: I'm in love with a married man. We've been seeing each other for over a year now. He told me that he and his wife weren't actually living as man and wife, altho they shared the same house for appearances sake. Also, because they have five children, he didn't want to break up the marriage just yet. But Abby, he promised that in due time he would divorce his wife and marry me.

I have been 100 per cent true to this man, Abby, since the day I realized I loved him. He said he loved me, too, but now he gives me the news that his wife is expecting! I don't know what to think. I need your opinion.

MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED UP: I think you should thank your lucky stars for two things. One, that you discovered early in the game that the "love bug" that bit you was a louse. Two, that if he had to get one of you pregnant, it was his wife.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I am a very poor hostess—at least I think I am. It's not that I can't relax around people because when I'm a guest, I'm perfectly relaxed and have a wonderful time, but when guests are in my home, I am nervous and tense and I am just not "myself."

I am not the fussy kind of hostess who runs around emptying ash trays all the time, but if there's a lull in the conversation I feel embarrassed, and worry that I'm not giving my guests a good time.

When I invite people over, they say, "Why don't you come HERE instead?"—which leads me to believe that they have noticed my nervousness, too, and would rather spare me the agony. What's wrong with me? And is there a solution?

POOR HOSTESS

DEAR HOSTESS: Guests can't relax unless the hostess is relaxed. The secret to being a good hostess is in getting comfortable people together in a comfortable atmosphere. No host or hostess can give his guests a good time. The guests must make it themselves.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LIKES TO GOSSIP": To paraphrase a little gem of philosophy I learned years ago: "He who steals my good steals trash. But he who steals my gossip about me and steals my good name enriches himself not, but makes me poor indeed."

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Bonanza Soothing to Watch

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Bonanza," the NBC Western that gallops along smartly at the head of the television pack, is a series that doesn't cause much excitement morning-after talk, but the folks keep tuning it in, year after year.

Shrewd Style
The most recent episode was a good example of the series' shrewd style. There was the important emphasis on a story that could be played as a period costume drama or a contemporary tale with nothing more than a few changes of sets and references. There was a bit of gun-slinging, some fist-waving — all familiar background of the legendary Wild West. And there was that nice Cartwright family, always on the side of law, order, country and motherhood.

The work of the series is spread among the three stars of the show. Sunday night's episode belonged to Lorne Greene, the white-haired daddy of the clan.

The difficulty was salt. All the ranchers were losing their stock because the cattle had no salt. And they had no salt because the salt dealer had died and his niece, a city girl with funny ideas about making money, planned to hold out for the highest bidder.

Then a nasty rancher wanted to pay an enormous price for all the salt. But at the last minute, good Ben Cartwright outbid him on behalf of all the ranchers. Then followed the inevitable shoot-out in which the nasty rancher was, of course, killed. And so was the man the city girl loved.

Right Always Prevails
The lesson in all this was about greed and a demonstration that money doesn't necessarily bring happiness or love. It is a soothing show to watch. It is predictable and right always prevails. The most that ever happens to the Cartwrights is that they are occasionally winged by a bullet.

ABC will start its intensive coverage, much of it live, of the Winter Olympic Games with the opening ceremonies at 8:45 A.M. EST Tuesday. The program will come from Grenoble, France, by satellite. The network is going all-out, using 40 cameras, helicopters and a team of some 300 persons to cover the skating and skiing. It plans to devote some 27 hours to the games—much more than it expects to offer during its coverage of U.S. political conventions next August.

CBS and ABC have announced dates for more drama specials. Michael Gazzo's 1955 Broadway hit, "A Hatful of Rain," will be a two-hour ABC program on March 3. It will star Sandy Dennis, Peter Falk and Herschel Bernardi. Tad Mosel's "Secrets," an original drama, will be the fourth "CBS Playhouse" production of the season, to be broadcast on May 15. The third in the series, Robert Cram's "My Father and My Mother," comes along on Feb. 13.

Rusk Draws His Own Conclusions: Hanoi Not Interested in Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk says North Vietnam helped mount the major Communist offensive in South Vietnam knowing U.S. air attacks were being curtailed during exploratory peace moves.

The United States therefore must conclude, Rusk said, that the North Vietnamese "are not seriously interested in the present time in talking about peaceful settlements."

His statement that the United States "exercised some restraint" in its bombing of the North came during a joint radio-television appearance with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who left open the possibility of new American troop deployments to the war zone.

Not 100 PC Sure

The program was NBC's "Meet the Press," doubled to an hour's length for Sunday's joint interview, which reportedly was suggested by President Johnson.

Both Rusk and McNamara said they believe—but are not "100 percent sure," in Rusk's words—that the USS Pueblo did not intrude in the territorial waters of her North Korean captors.

And McNamara said the United States did not send aid to the Pueblo when the intelligence vessel was captured Jan. 23, because it was impossible initially to tell what was happening; there was no contingency plan specifically covering the ship; and an attempt to send air support might have generated "a bloody battle" with North Korean planes.

McNamara said it seems clear no U.S. action could have saved the Pueblo and her 83-man crew from capture. South Korean sources meanwhile reported American and North Korean negotiators meeting at Panmunjom may have made "substantial headway" toward release of the crew members.

In Washington, a leading Republican foreign affairs spokesman, Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., accused the government of hoodwinking the public about the severity of the Viet Cong offensive in South Vietnam.

But Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen said he was inclined to agree with the view that the Viet Cong attacks were the guerrilla group's "death rattle," adding, "They wouldn't do it unless they were desperate."

Rusk said the bombing limitation occurred in recent days as the United States sought clarification of North Vietnam's statement it would talk peace if all bombing were permanently halted.

President Johnson previously had offered—in what has become known as his San Antonio formula—to stop the bombing if this would lead promptly to productive discussions and provided the Communists wouldn't take military advantage of the cessation.

They Were Party

"They (Hanoi) know these explorations are going on," Rusk said, "because they were party to them."

The bombing was restricted particularly around the sensitive areas of Hanoi and Haiphong, he added. "Again, Hanoi knows this," Rusk said.

"We have not had a pause in the traditionally accepted sense," Rusk continued, "but we have limited the bombing at certain points in order to make it somewhat easier to carry forward these explorations, so that particularly difficult incidents would not interrupt them."

This probably referred to the chance of diplomacy souring, in-ndent bomb damage to Hanoi's population areas or Soviet ships in Haiphong harbor.

Despite the limitation "they participated in laying on this major offensive," Rusk declared.

"I think it would be foolish not to draw a political conclusion from this—that they are not seriously interested at the present time in talking about peaceful settlements, or in exploring the problem connected with the San Antonio formula," he said.

Small Business Study Is Directed by Duryea

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Nine Republican assemblymen will study the effect of proposed tax increases and governmental regulations on small businesses in order to help the Assembly minority to assess Gov. Rockefeller's proposed budget.

Assembly Minority Leader Perry B. Duryea named the group Sunday and said in a statement that small business firms "are the group whose average resources and manpower are least capable of absorbing additional regulation and taxation."

Duryea, a Suffolk County seafood wholesaler, selected Assemblyman Fred W. Droms Jr. of Rexford to head the study group.

The others are Frank Walkley of Castile, Clarence D. Lane of Windham, Robert F. Kelly of Brooklyn, Prescott B. Huntington of St. James, James L. Emery of Genesee, Donald A. Campbell of Amsterdam, Joseph C. Finley of Walworth and Chester H. Hardt of Williamsville.

Five of the nine are businessmen, three are lawyers and one is a farmer.

The minority leader asked the group to consider the additional work caused by government-required reports, the potential impact of Rockefeller's proposal for compulsory health insurance and special problems of small businesses in ghettos.

The report, Duryea said, would be considered in the Assembly minority's analysis of the governor's budget proposals.

The increasing rate of government's tax and regulatory demands on commercial enterprises necessitates a new, critical examination by the Legislature of the role businesses play in our economy and of their continuing ability to absorb these and market-place pressures," Duryea said.

He added that the Legislature lacked "vital economic data with which to gauge the implications of existing and proposed programs" relating to small businesses.

Free-Spending Tourist Key Target of Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wide-ranging, free-spending U.S. tourist is a major target as Congress is urged to plug at least partially the outflow of dollars that reached some $3.6 billion last year.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler heads a delegation of officials to appear before the House Ways and Means Committee today seeking additional legislation for parts of President Johnson's program to cut the payments imbalance by $3 billion.

For some measures, such as restrictions on investment abroad, the authority is already on the books. But the administration is seeking legal tools to trim the tourist outflow by $500 million.

Details of the proposal have been guarded, but it is believed to include an excise tax on tickets for overseas travel and a tax on tourist spending, probably with an exemption intended to help low-budget travelers like students and teachers, and probably exempting travel in the Western Hemisphere.

Some tax arrangements intended to stimulate exports and discourage imports also may be proposed.

Congress' initial reaction seemed to be that the travel tax would be a second dose of bitter medicine after the still unswayed proposal for an income tax hike.

But Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee, which has repeatedly shelved the tax increase while demanding more spending cuts, has shown himself more favorable at least to the principle of the balance-of-payments program.

"I don't think there is any question but that some action will be taken in this area by the committee," the Arkansas Democrat told an Indiana audience last week.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford was not so encouraging in a weekend speech at Duke University, Durham, N.C.

"The proposal to restrict travel may run into trouble in Congress but it is too early to tell," he said, calling these restrictions and those on investment abroad "alien to a free society and destructive of free intercourse in goods and persons between nations."

Marine Hawk Poised As Fulbright Threat

By HARRY KELLY
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, who hasn't had a serious election challenge since Arkansas sent him to the Senate 24 years ago, is threatened by a Marine hawk who contends Fulbright's opposition to U.S. policy in Vietnam is delaying the day of victory.

Fulbright's response: Plead his case to the voters and field their roughest questions.

The Senate's No. 1 dove isn't retreating from his criticism of President Johnson's Vietnam policy; in fact, he's telling his homefolk he doubts the administration now will accept anything less than victory in the war.

Fulbright's possible opponent in the August Democratic primary is former Gov. Sid McMath, a major general in the Marine Corps reserve who has two Marine officer sons—one in Vietnam.

Three Speeches a Week
McMath, now a Little Rock lawyer, is making an average of three speeches a week across the state, where hawkish sentiment is strong, contending Fulbright's criticism "is holding up victory" by receiving "undue attention."

Many observers see evidence that Fulbright is gaining strength through an increasing number of personal appearances. In each, he sets out his views briefly then invites questions from the audience.

His constituents respond with alacrity. They probe his stand on Vietnam; they prod him about his role in steering the Gulf of Tonkin resolution through the Senate; they worriedly inquire about the North Korean seizure of the USS Pueblo, and they bluntly ask the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee if his dissent is indeed prolonging the Vietnam war.

"I don't think it has any significance at all in keeping Ho Chi Minh from the negotiation table," Fulbright told one such gathering in Pine Bluff.

"Are you willing to accept the infallibility of one leader?" he demanded.

Fulbright is said to feel the administration will help McMath if the former governor decides to run against him.

But many political observers see Fulbright's strength reflected in former Gov. Orval Faubus' attitude.

Faubus held the state house for six straight terms before stepping out in 1966. The Democrats nominated Jim Johnson, but the voters defied tradition and elected a Republican, Winthrop Rockefeller.

Faubus has talked of taking on either Fulbright or Rockefeller this year, whichever appeared the weaker. Now Faubus is believed to have given up any idea of challenging fellow Democrat Fulbright in favor of zeroing in on Rockefeller.

Fence Mending
The senator has been fence mending since last fall, "discussing the issues" with the voters in 32 speeches and question-and-answer sessions.

In appearances in Pine Bluff, Searcy and Hot Springs, Fulbright told his audiences that big-stick diplomacy is awesome; dangerous in a nuclear world; that restraint is needed in dealing with incidents such as the North Korean seizure of the Pueblo.

He recalled "our friends" the Israelis "shot a similar ship of ours almost out of the water at great loss of life." He referred to the attack on the USS Liberty last June during the Israel-Arab fighting.

"We didn't threaten them with atom bombs," said Fulbright. "I understand it is agreed informally to sell them more planes."

As for Vietnam, "politically, of course, a victory is preferable," he said.

"I keep hoping the President will recognize that it's in his interest and in the interest of the country to bring it (the war) to a close by a negotiated settlement."

But, he said, "there always seems to be some obstacle to a negotiated settlement."

"I believe this administration is unwilling now to accept anything short of victory."

Fulbright told his audiences one reason he urges restraint over the Pueblo seizure "are the circumstances that grew out of the Tonkin Gulf."

In that 1964 incident the administration charged North Vietnamese PT boats attacked two U.S. destroyers on the high seas off North Vietnam. It became the basis for the resolution, which Fulbright steered through the Senate, expressing advance approval for U.S. steps in Southeast Asia.

But, Fulbright told the Searcy meeting, "The ships in the Tonkin Gulf incident were not always outside (North Vietnam's) 12 mile limit. I didn't know it at the time."

CAPTURED — Miss Betty Olsen, 32, a missionary nurse for the Christian and Missionary Alliance at a Vietnamese leper colony, is believed to have been taken prisoner by the Viet Cong during an attack on the leprosarium where six other missionaries were massacred earlier this week. # BRT Told Not to Strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, set for a strike at 12:01 a.m. Monday against the Erie Lackawanna Railroad's western district, told its members Sunday not to strike because a federal mediator will be in Cleveland to discuss the issue at stake.

Earlier, U.S. District Judge Girard Kahlreich issued an injunction against the BRT and told the union "to report for work."

A union spokesman in Cleveland said Charles Luna, president of the BRT, and Gregory Maxwell, president of the Erie Lackawanna, had talked by long distance telephone after the court order was issued.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler heads a delegation of officials to appear before the House Ways and Means Committee today seeking additional legislation for parts of President Johnson's program to cut the payments imbalance by $3 billion.

For some measures, such as restrictions on investment abroad, the authority is already on the books. But the administration is seeking legal tools to trim the tourist outflow by $500 million.

Details of the proposal have been guarded, but it is believed to include an excise tax on tickets for overseas travel and a tax on tourist spending, probably with an exemption intended to help low-budget travelers like students and teachers, and probably exempting travel in the Western Hemisphere.

Some tax arrangements intended to stimulate exports and discourage imports also may be proposed.

Congress' initial reaction seemed to be that the travel tax would be a second dose of bitter medicine after the still unswallowed proposal for an income tax hike.

But Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee, which has repeatedly shelved the tax increase while demanding more spending cuts, has shown himself more favorable at least to the principle of the balance-of-payments program.

"I don't think there is any question but that some action will be taken in this area by the committee," the Arkansas Democrat told an Indiana audience last week.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford was not so encouraging in a weekend speech at Duke University, Durham, N.C.

"The proposal to restrict travel may run into trouble in Congress but it is too early to tell," he said, calling these restrictions and those on investment abroad "alien to a free society and destructive of free intercourse in goods and persons between nations."

BRT Told Not to Strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, set for a strike at 12:01 a. m. Monday against the Erie Lackawanna Railroad's western district, told its members Sunday not to strike because a federal mediator will be in Cleveland to discuss the issue at stake.

Earlier, U.S. District Judge Girard Kalbfleisch issued an injunction against the BRT and told the union to report for work.

A union spokesman in Cleveland said Charles Luna, president of the BRT, and Gregory Maxwell, president of the Erie Lackawanna, had talked by long distance telephone after the court order was issued.
